

No End in Sight

Heat Wave Sizzles On

Victoria's heat wave, already three days old and with temperatures six degrees above normal, could become a long one.

Although some clouds are possible today, Allan McQuarrie, officer in charge at the Gonzales Hill weather station, said Monday that "I see no great change in sight."

He said mean temperatures of 62 degrees Saturday and 63 Sunday were six degrees above normal, while Sunday's high of 74 at Gonzales matched the June 1 reading as the hottest this year.

Monday's high was 73, and Mr. McQuarrie said cool breezes in the past 48 hours are the only thing that have kept the official Gonzales temperature below the 80-plus weather encountered in inland areas.

The longest heat wave last year was three days and didn't come until mid-August.

Mr. McQuarrie said he thinks "the heat is being felt more due to the lack of precipitation."

DEW DROUGHT DUE

This area has had no measurable precipitation compared to the normal 1/4-inch in the first 18 days of June. However, the drought was about due, since Victorians have absorbed 15.73 inches of rain this year, compared to the normal 12.71.

Elsewhere in B.C.:

Weathermen and foresters said the huge Vancouver forest district is in a state of "severe drought" with an extreme fire danger. Some higher humidity is due today or Wednesday.

The provincial water branch, in its final bulletin on B.C. runoff conditions, said ideal melt conditions have eliminated the flood potential on most rivers despite a record snowpack.

However, the branch said a flood threat still exists on the Columbia River and, as it is confirmed, the heat wave sent the Columbia above the flood alert level in Trail, covering one street with two feet of water.

NATO Eyes Canadian Squadron

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may contribute a squadron of ships to a proposed "standing naval force" for NATO, Defence Minister Belyer told the Commons Monday.

He added his department has not finished its investigation of the proposal.

Former defence minister Douglas Harkness asked when the force was approved in principle by NATO. He referred to a statement by Admiral Thomas Moorer, new chief of U.S. naval operations, that NATO's naval force will be established soon.

B.C. Log Drive Buffets Resort Owner

FRANCOIS LAKE (CP) — Resort owner Douglas Kelly frustrated boommen as they drove their logs down the Elk Lake River Monday by anchoring a boat in the middle of the river, and putting out his fishing line.

But he failed to stop the drive.

A crowd of more than 70 persons watched as Mr. Kelly on several occasions was swept downstream by heavy logs piling his 10-foot aluminum boat.

WELL-CONTROLLED

"A well-controlled log drive," he yelled to the spectators as he fought the current and logs.

"Just look at them."

The controversial drive in this remote area of central British Columbia started on schedule Monday amid reports the provincial government would move to halt any interference from Mr. Kelly, spokesman for disident resort owners, or any others.

BITTER ROW

The drive caused a bitter controversy last year between the federal and provincial governments on jurisdiction over movement of logs down the river. The resort owners claim the log drive ruins salmon spawning grounds on the Stelaho.

B.C. Deputy Forestry Minister F. S. McKinnon, who had indicated the government was considering issuing an injunction to stop any interference with the log drive, said he would not move to stop Mr. Kelly or any other lodge operator who might anchor in the river.

HIS LIFE

"We are just concerned about the safety of the men," he said, "it's a matter for the police."

RCMP Staff Sergeant D. G. Williams of Prince George, one of six Mounties at the scene, said there was nothing he could do either.

"The man is endangering his own life, using his own judgment," he said.

Fraser Lake Sawmills Ltd., organizer of the drive, ended the tow of the first day's 300,000 board feet of logs into a small lake at the head of the river, and expected to move them down the river as planned.

Operations were slowed, however, as the boommen took extra precautions in efforts to bypass Mr. Kelly's boat.

TEAMS ON SCENE

Meanwhile, research teams from the federal fisheries department, B.C. Research Council and provincial Fish and Wildlife and Commercial Fisheries Branch were spotted along the river hours before the drive began.

Fraser Lake Sawmills' logging manager, Joe Leslie, said Monday's boom was smaller than those to be driven later in the week. In all, about 4,000,000 board feet of logs are to be driven down the river.

It demands that Israel should restitute in full, and within the shortest possible period of time, all the damage inflicted by its aggression upon the United Arab Republic, Syria and Jordan, and their nationals, and should return to them all seized property and other material assets.

Koosygin also elicited sharp replies from the U.S. and Britain over statements he made in the speech preliminary to presenting his draft resolution. He spoke one hour after U.S. President Johnson made a major foreign policy speech in Washington. Johnson gave five principles for peace including recognition of "right of national life."

On Verge

Montreal newspaper said Monday Manitoba's Premier Roblin is "on the verge of declaring his candidacy" for Progressive Conservative party leadership. He got green light at weekend from influential Manitoba party group and meets national party president Dalton Camp in Winnipeg today.

Kosygin, Eban Highlight UN Day

Big Two Summit Out

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Soviet Premier Kosygin killed hopes Monday night for a Big Two summit meeting with U.S. President Johnson while he attended the emergency UN General Assembly Session on the Middle East crisis.

U.S. sources said Kosygin sent word to the White House he is unable to accept Johnson's invitation to a visit, since he came to the U.S. to attend the session and not to make a visit to any American officials.

Word of the Soviet decision deepened the gloom caused by the session's first full day, in which Kosygin called on the assembly to condemn Israel as an aggressor and Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban came back with a ringing denunciation of Russia.

COURTESY

U.S. ambassador Arthur Goldberg speaks first today. He was due to start Monday but the U.S. gave Kosygin the honor as an act of courtesy.

As expected, Kosygin presented a Soviet draft resolution to the 123-country assembly that called for condemnation of Israel's "aggressive actions" and for the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied Arab territories.

The draft resolution outlined an even tougher position than the Soviet Union had taken in the recent Security Council debate on the Middle East, which was broken off last Wednesday after Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko had failed to persuade the council to condemn Israel and had declared the council to be deadlocked.

RESTITUTION

It demands that Israel should restitute in full, and within the shortest possible period of time, all the damage inflicted by its aggression upon the United Arab Republic, Syria and Jordan, and their nationals, and should return to them all seized property and other material assets.

Koosygin also elicited sharp replies from the U.S. and Britain over statements he made in the speech preliminary to presenting his draft resolution. He spoke one hour after U.S. President Johnson made a major foreign policy speech in Washington. Johnson gave five principles for peace including recognition of "right of national life."

Justice for refugees, limits to the arms race and the right of all nations to use the critical Gulf of Aqaba.

NOT SIMPLE

Johnson said there is no single, simple solution to the Middle East crisis. There must be troop withdrawals, but he linked this with his five principles. Johnson did not name Israel in his troop reference. Nor did he name Egypt when he said the closing of the Gulf of Aqaba was a major cause of the crisis.

Egypt did close the gulf to Israel-bound shipping. Koosygin and other high Soviet dignitaries left the assembly while Eban was making his sharp attack. Soviet officials said the reason was a previously-made appointment.

SOVIET RECORD

"I give a simple answer to the Soviet government," Eban said. "Your government's record in the stimulation of the arms race, in the paralysis of the Security Council, in the encouragement throughout the Arab world of unfounded suspicions concerning Israel's intentions, your constant refusal to say a single word of criticism at any time of declarations threatening the violent overthrow of Israel's sovereignty and existence—all this gravely undermines your claim to objectivity.

"You come here in our eyes not as a judge or a prosecutor, but rather as a legitimate object of international criticism for the part you have played in the entire events which have brought our region to a point of explosive tension.

DISTRIBUTION

"If the Soviet Union had made an equal distribution of its friendship among the peoples of the Middle East, if it had refrained from exploiting the regional racism and tensions for the purposes of its own global policy, if it had stood in even-handed devotion to the legitimate interests of all states, the crisis that commands our attention and anxiety would never have occurred."

Eban also said his country was shocked by the sudden withdrawal of the UN emergency force from the Gaza Strip last month and could never agree to a repetition of such a force.

Both men favored a Big Four approach toward Mideast peacemaking, but de Gaulle is less keen than Wilson for negotiations within the UN framework.

They opposed any early Big Four summit conference but did feel the Big Four must underwrite any Arab-Israel settlement. Mideast arms supplies should be limited, all waterways should be free to all and war gains in territory must be the subject of talks.

B.C. Fishing Dispute

UNION FINED, TRIO JAILED

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three executives of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union were sentenced Monday to jail for one year, and the union was fined $25,000 for criminal contempt of the B.C. Supreme Court.

The union was given no extended time for payment of the fine.

Mr. Justice T. A. Dohm chastised the union for its "planned flouting of the court's authority." He said he could not imagine a case of more gross contempt.

As the sentences were handed down to union President H. Steve Stavens, secretary Homer Stevens and business agent

Jack Nichol, several loud cries were heard in the courtroom. Eyes of the men's wives filled with tears.

The judge initiated the action following actions and press releases relating to a supreme court injunction issued in a union jurisdictional dispute in Prince Rupert.

Mr. Justice Dohm refused to accept submissions on behalf of the union and offers that the case should be dismissed for insufficient evidence.

'NOT SERIOUS'

He also rejected a submission the case was not serious enough to be dealt with by the procedure being used—a summary hearing before a judge.

Union lawyer John Stanton said that in previous cases judges have held this procedure should be used rarely and only when no other remedies are available.

In this case, Mr. Stanton argued, the attorney-general should have acted under a section of the Criminal Code or the case could have been left to civil suits for damage.

The injunction issued by Judge Clarke Smith ordered the union, through business agent Nichol, to send a telegram giving permission for union shore workers to unload and process fish from five trawlers in Prince Rupert.

The union was fined to have

John Maltwood

Museum Donor Dies at 100

The donor of the University of Victoria's Maltwood Art Museum died Sunday in his 101st year.

Funeral services for centenarian John Maltwood, formerly of The Thatch in Royal Oak, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in Christ Church Cathedral, with Archbishop Harold Sexton and Dean Brian Whitlow officiating.

Mr. Maltwood, who celebrated his 100th birthday last summer, turned over the thatch-roofed Stanthorpe landmark and its art treasures to the university in November, 1964.

Much of the Maltwood collection is Chinese, some dating back to Han and Wei dynasties of 2,000 years ago, and was owned by his former wife Katherine who willed the collection to the university.

He was born in London, England, and was managing director of Oxo Ltd. of London until he retired in the 1920s.

After retiring he and his wife travelled extensively in Europe and North Africa in search of architecture and art, and finally settled in Victoria in 1938.

He is survived by his wife Margaret in Victoria and niece and nephews in Jersey, Channel Islands.

Nasser Expands Power

Direct Talks Israeli Plan

From UPI, AP, Reuters

While positions on the Arab-Israeli conflict hardened on both sides at the UN Monday, the same thing happened in the Middle East itself.

The Israeli cabinet ended a two-day policy meeting by indicating it will insist on direct and separate peace talks with Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

Announcement of the details,

In Egypt, President Nasser tightened his control by making himself premier and secretary-general of the only political party, thereby taking direct command of both the government and the party.

NEW POSTS

He made Zakaria Mohleddin deputy premier and put former premier Mohammed Sidki Suleiman in charge of industry and power.

A possible indication of Israel's stand on the territory issue was given by former Premier David Ben-Gurion in a letter to Israeli newspapers.

'OUT-IF'

Ben-Gurion, stressing he was speaking only for himself, said Israeli forces should withdraw from Sinai if Egypt will agree to sign a peace treaty guaranteeing Israeli ships free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal. Israel would also retain control of the Gaza Strip.

Ben-Gurion said Israeli troops should agree to withdraw from occupied Syria if Syria will

Paris Parley Fails to Agree

PARIS (AP)—French President de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Wilson failed to agree Monday on how to get Big Four or Israeli-Arab talks going.

They also spent nearly two hours, during day-long meetings, in inconclusive discussion of Britain's bid for Common Market membership. And their exchange touched as well on China's first H-bomb test and the Vietnam war—but no statements were made.

UN Guard Extended

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations Security Council voted unanimously Monday to extend the mandate of the UN peacekeeping force on Cyprus for another six months.

The 4,600-man force includes about 900 Canadian troops.

Canada, participating in a council vote on the Cyprus force for the first time since it was established in 1964, cast a backward glance at the sudden disbandment of the UN Emergency Force in Egypt last month.

Ambassador George Ignatieff said Canada wants it clearly understood that the Cyprus force

Mariner 5 Reset On Course

PASADENA, CALIF. (UPI) — A series of radio commands was flashed Monday to America's Mariner 5 spacecraft, ordering it to perform a midcourse manoeuvre that put it on a more perfect path for a fly-by mission to Venus.

The move changed the speed and trajectory of the 540-pound spacecraft so that on Oct. 19 it will fly past the mysterious planet at a distance of 3,000 miles or less.

Chinese Embassy Sealed by Indians

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian police sealed the Chinese embassy Monday in retaliation of a Chinese siege of the Indian embassy in Peking.

Defence Minister Swaran Singh told Parliament the Chinese embassy staff was being placed under the same restrictions as those placed on Indian diplomats in Peking.

VISITING BANNED

Indian embassy staff members and their families, besieged for three days in Peking by Red Guards, have been told officially not to move out of the building, and visitors have been banned.

Swaran also told Parliament India had turned down a Chinese request for permission to send a plane to evacuate embassy personnel from New Delhi who were injured when a mob attacked the Chinese Embassy here Friday.

TWO PLANES INVOLVED

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said the Chinese plane would not be allowed to come to India until Indian women and children have been evacuated from Peking in a plane India intended to send.

Singh said at this stage India is not considering severing diplomatic relations with China.

SPY CHARGES
The Sino-Indian incidents began when China expelled Indian diplomat Krishnan Raghunath June 14 from Peking on charges of spying.

Simultaneously with Monday's note telling the Chinese to stay in their embassy, another Indian note ordered third secretary Hsieh Cheng-hao, who was declared persona non grata last week, to leave the country within 48 hours.

Chinese Fallout Reported

TOKYO (AP) — Radioactive debris from China's first hydrogen-bomb explosion Saturday was reported falling Monday on northern parts of Japan and India.

An Indian high-altitude research laboratory at Sulbary, 400 miles north of New Delhi, said it had detected nuclear dust particles but did not report the intensity of the radiation.

Further tests were planned. The isotope research department reported a slight increase of radioactivity in rain that fell at Morioka, 280 miles northeast of Tokyo.

U.S. Admits Shelling Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department conceded Saturday U.S. planes may have struck a Soviet ship with cannon fire aimed at a North Vietnamese anti-aircraft battery June 2.

The statement came 16 days after the Soviets said the 3,358-ton diesel ship Turkestan had been hit at the North Vietnamese port of Cam Pha.

It said a report from Gen. John Ryan of the U.S. Air Force disclosed new information which indicated the Turkestan was hit by cannon fire from U.S. F-105 jets.

Ground fighting flared east of Saigon Monday while U.S. B-52 bombers kept up a steady pounding of Communist targets just south of the so-called demilitarized zone in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

Sporadic action was reported across South Vietnam.

The Mercedes-Benz 250S: why it's more likely to end up in a museum than a junkyard.

Mercedes-Benz engineers are too busy building efficient machines to bother with frills and annual face-lifts. Their efforts have earned over 5,400 patents—plus loyal owners in 160 countries.

Their latest achievement is the 250S Sedan, recently introduced as a rather unorthodox competitor of cars in the "luxury" price class.

It appeals to the intellect. The 250S is unorthodox because it refuses to pander to snobs and status-seekers.

For example, it carries as many people and as much luggage as its status-conscious rivals but measures a full two feet shorter.

The 250S darts into tight parking slots. It tucks into garages, weaves through traffic, and handles with almost laughable ease.

"The standard for comparison"

The 250S repays your investment with technical brilliance, not gawags. Instead of being satisfied with conventional suspension, Mercedes-Benz engineers devised a fully independent suspension that offers "a combination of riding comfort and stability that is the standard for comparison," says Road & Track. The source was a world-championship Mercedes-Benz racing car.

more: The engineers added a hydraulic spring to the rear axle of the 250S. If you stow a heavy load in the trunk, this spring silently pumps itself up. The car keeps riding level.

Enormous stopping power

Disc brakes are bolted to all four wheels of the 250S, a system identical to 180-mph Grand Prix machines. These fade-free brakes not only stop you, they keep stopping you.

It is almost impossible to lock up the rear wheels in a brutal panic stop. The reason: a valve in the brake system that balances front and rear-wheel braking forces.

Body welded 10,000 times. Your 250S won't be a sleeky hulk in a few years. Sixteen different gauges of sheet metal go into its "unit" body—welded at 10,000 points to form a rigid, rattle-free shell.

After hand filing has smoothed away all burrs, the body is thoroughly submerged—not dipped—in a primer bath. It emerges with 24 pounds of primer etched on.

Another 24 pounds of undercoat protect the underside. Even the insides of the hub caps are sprayed with an anti-corrosion coating.

Zeal for perfection

The engine of the 250S exemplifies the Mercedes-Benz zeal for perfection.

In place of the lavish V-8 layout of its rivals, the 250S engineers chose a more compact, more subtle six-cylinder engine. Design—single overhead camshaft. Highly-efficient; exceptionally sturdy.

Cunning design cannot, of itself, produce high performance from modest size. Production precision must match engineering skill. The 250S engine is machined to tolerances of four 10,000ths of an inch. RESULT: The 250S possesses the get-up-and-go to satisfy any man, however venturesome—with gasoline economy of 20 mpg or more in normal use.

Performance conclusions

How does it all add up? The 250S engine, suspension and brakes are all designed for demanding driving.

On European autobahns, for example, a Mercedes-Benz owner expects to be able to loaf along all day at speeds over 100 mph—in safety, silence and serenity.

He expects to be able to fling his seemingly sedate five-passenger sedan into Alpine hairpins without the rear end weaving crazily.

He expects to be able to drive over backboard backroads at highway speeds—without his machine pitching and wallowing like a fat old tug in an Atlantic storm.

He expects to control his car with complete authority in any conditions.

How about Canada?

Here, in Canada, our driving is probably more sedate than is the norm in Europe; it is certainly slower.

As Rainer Lange-Mechlen, General Manager of Mercedes-Benz of Canada, recently pointed out:

"Our 250S is not designed for speed alone. But we believe it is comforting to enjoy an extra margin of engineering excellence. It feels good to drive a well-made car—just as you feel good in a well-made suit, or when using a good camera, or wearing an expensive watch."

Interested? Then drop the coupon in the postbox. Or drop in and drive a 250S. It's a rewarding experience.

Diplomatic Chess

RUSSIAN PREMIER ALEXEI KOSYGIN'S address to the United Nations General Assembly can scarcely be interpreted as anything but a rebuff to the tentative overtures made by President L. B. Johnson at the White House only an hour before the Soviet leader spoke.

Premier Kosygin had listened to the president's policy statements, but he parried questions on his reactions with the suggestion that these would be clarified when he spoke to the assembly.

Obviously his prepared remarks could not be altered in the light of the president's proposals, so the public is left with the reluctant conclusion that in each case the leaders of the two most powerful nations on earth have merely established the basis for negotiation in the future.

If there is a common ground in which their vast influences can be channelled towards a satisfactory settlement of the Middle East's fierce animosities, it is not yet apparent.

But President Johnson's five points provide a good beginning:

- Recognition of the right of national life;
• Justice for the refugees;
• Freedom of innocent maritime passage;
• Limitation of the arms race; and
• Political independence and territorial integrity for all.

Biggest stumbling block, it seems, will be the reluctance of Israel to withdraw from occupied territory without adequate guarantees against guerrilla and covert military molestation. If in the General Assembly she is blamed as an aggressor, her position is to some extent compromised. But she will still possess strong arguments in negotiation.

The venerable Dr. David Ben Gurion, former Israeli prime minister, has proposals of his own for a basis of agreement. He suggests formation of an autonomous Arab state on the west bank of the Jordan, in return for guarantees by treaty with Egypt and Jordan that Israel would have freedom of access to the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal, he suggests the occupying forces would withdraw from Sinai.

He would recommend withdrawal of Israel's forces from the Syrian plateau in return for a treaty pledge from her northern neighbor that all harassment from that quarter would cease.

But he declares that Jerusalem will never again be a divided city and that negotiations on all points of settlement must be carried out by Israelis and Arabs, without interference.

There will be interference, of course. Israel is in an impregnable position for negotiation with the Arab states, whose armies are scattered and largely destroyed, with a disastrous loss of equipment and, no doubt, an equally damaged morale. Their friends in the General Assembly will exert every possible pressure to win a face-saving peace.

The danger is that such support will encourage belligerence and sustain the very attitude that has brought repeated conflicts instead of peaceful co-existence, so long the pious hope.

Testing the Heat

PRIME MINISTER HAROLD WILSON'S decision to send Lord Alport to Rhodesia to sound out the possibilities of re-opening talks with the Smith regime will undoubtedly be severely criticized by elements within his own government party as well as the majority of Afro-Asian Commonwealth countries.

However, regardless of what has been said in the past and whatever may be said in the future, Mr. Wilson has made the proper move at this time. His naming of a former Conservative cabinet minister to do the job may evince some surprise from both sides of the House but his choice of emissary was well merited. Lord Alport, as a former high commissioner for the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, is exceptionally well qualified to carry out the mission.

Despite this it may be expected that the hard-core vengeance seekers will deliberately interpret Lord Alport's visit as evidence that the British government is now willing to weaken its position by making the first overture.

This is simply not true. For some months now the United Kingdom has been receiving unofficial requests from Premier Ian Smith channelled through devious diplomatic routes calling for a restart of negotiations.

It is now believed that Mr. Smith may be ready to accept a settlement of the affair based on the constitutional plan discussed aboard HMS Tiger. It is also believed that if he does, Mr. Wilson will give serious consideration to withdrawing his pledge—made later to mollify Afro-Asian members of the Commonwealth—to no independence before African majority rule.

Mr. Wilson will no doubt make a full and detailed report on the situation on Lord Alport's return. Until then both the British House and the Commonwealth Secretariat will have to be satisfied with his statement that Lord Alport is simply going to Rhodesia "to test the temperature of the water in Salisbury."

Gibraltar Vote

THE RECENT increase of tempo and frequency of Spanish dictator Franco's demands for Gibraltar, plus his mounting harassment of the British colony and his refusal to submit the matter to the World Court indicates he believes Spain's claim enjoys considerable international support.

It is possible, of course, that he may get some backing from a few Afro-Asian members of the United Nations Committee on Decolonization who might allow their emotional reaction to the fact that Gibraltar is a British "colony" to overrule their better judgment.

Britain's decision to hold a referendum for the people of Gibraltar to choose between joining Spain or retaining their links with the United Kingdom may do much to straighten out this warped line of thinking.

Further to this Franco's anti-colonialist allies might be well advised to look into Spain's own colonial empire of Ceuta, Guinea and Rio de Oro before committing themselves further to his cause.

It may also be observed that even though—as is expected—Gibraltarians vote overwhelmingly in favor of maintaining their close relationship with Britain in the referendum, Franco is unlikely to give up his virulent campaign.

After all, a free vote doesn't mean much to a Fascist dictator.

"Now that I've got my own ball, can I play with you big fellas, can I, huh?"

The Arab-Israeli Conflict

Justice for the Palestinian Arabs

MY POINT of view, as a British Westerner: By 1948, the Palestinian Arabs had been the inhabitants of Palestine for more than 1,300 years. This length of time has given them a prescriptive right to continue to live in Palestine and to retain their property there. As for the Jews' claim to have a right to reoccupy Palestine, the statute of limitations applies to this. The Israelis have no right to keep the Palestinian Arabs out of their homes and to rob them of their property, as they have done.

A distinction has to be drawn between two different claims put forward by the Jews. Their claim against the Germans for reparation (so far as any kind of reparation can be made for mass murder) is 100 per cent justified. It is not at all unreasonable for the Jews to claim that their cumulative experience of criminal treatment by Westerners entitled them to have a country of their own. But then they should have been given German territory (e.g. the Rhineland), not Arab territory, as the site for a Jewish state; and also, from the beginning of the persecution of the Jews in Germany, Britain and the United States could, and should, have given all the Jewish refugees asylum in their own territories: they should not have laid on Palestine any part of a burden that was bound to strain still further already strained relations between Jews and Arabs there.

The Jews' claim to recover possession of Palestine after 1833 years is different in kind from their claim against Germany, and is not of equal validity. This historical claim was justifiable in so far—but only in so far—as it was compatible with the rights of the Palestinian Arabs. The Jews do have a right of free access to holy land in Palestine from Arab owners, and to plant Jewish settlers on purchased land in numbers that would not have threatened to swamp the Arab population. But they have had no right to seize by military force the territory that has now become the state of Israel, and to strip the Arab inhabitants into either second-class citizens of Israel or into refugees whose the Israelis are depriving of their homes and their property.

The existence and presence of the state of Israel and of the Israeli people are now facts, and it has been demonstrated that these facts cannot be undone. Moreover, if they could have been undone, the effect would have been to create a new horde of refugees—Israeli refugees this time. Yet, if you or I were Arabs, we should surely feel about Israel as the Arabs feel. One of the two main obstacles to a solution of the Arab-Israeli conflict is the Arab's unwillingness, so far, to accept the hard fact that the establishment of the state of Israel, within the limits set by the armistice-lines agreed in 1948, is an accomplished fact which the Arabs, too, have to recognize and accept. The other obstacle is the present plight of the Palestinian Arabs. These two obstacles are interrelated, and unless and until both obstacles are overcome, the conflict will continue.

The parties who are principally responsible for this conflict are neither the Israelis nor the Arabs themselves. They are three western peoples: the British, the Germans, the Americans. We Westerners have reconciliation and co-operation between them. The tests of Israel's sincerity will be that she makes it quite clear that she is making no territorial claims beyond the 1948 armistice lines (which, of course, implies withdrawing from all territory, beyond these lines, occupied in June, 1967), and also that she co-operates actively in the indemnification and permanent resettlement of the Palestinian Arab refugees. Every one of these refugees who is offered, and who accepts, repatriation in his own country, will be a help towards turning emily into friendship. The tests of the Arab states' sincerity will be that they, on their side, co-operate actively in the permanent resettlement of the refugees, and that they cease to use the refugees either as political pawns or as potential infiltrators, camped around Israel's borders. From the humanitarian point of view, permanent resettlement is, of course, in the best interests of the refugees themselves.

In Defence of Brambles

FROM an article in your paper dated June 15, I learned that some people in Saanich would like blackberry bushes to be regarded as noxious weeds.

It is difficult to see how anyone can regard as a noxious weed a plant which provides such delicious fruit and which at the same time provides food, shelter and nesting sites for the quail, pheasant and small birds that so enrich our lives.

Certainly brambles can be a nuisance in some situations, but a few minutes work with a bill-hook is usually sufficient to cure the problem.

In Saanich we are indeed fortunate to have such a wealth of plant and animal life to delight our senses. May I express the hope that it will long remain so.

The Arabs

As an American who landed in Israel in 1950 when that state was still very young, let me say a few words as to what I found there at that time.

Printed matter was still on hand which offered the Arab residents of Israel full citizenship, full pay for like work, freedom of religion—and even went so far as to mention that they were really needed there. Very good. Of late I have been listening to many remarks about the time "when the Arabs were driven out of Israel." It is beginning with the Oath of the Talmud Court.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1917—Canadian troops repulsed German attacks on new positions near Lens and the British recaptured lost ground near Monchy-lez-Proux; Italians attacked in the Trentino, capturing Austrian positions on Monte Ortigara.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1942—British submarines sank three large Japanese ships in the Malacca Straits; Estevan Point, Vancouver Island, was shelled by an enemy submarine; a Junkers 88 was shot down over Malta.

In view of all this I would like to know just how the Colonist in the item "The Key," published on June 13, thinks for a moment anyone can "rise above P.E.T.T.Y. feelings with a show of generosity," etc. To open a door to a new relationship between these people will not be easy.

Today in History

- President Andrew Johnson of the United States proclaimed the Alaska Purchase Treaty 100 years ago today—in 1867. Alaska was discovered by Russian explorer Vitus Bering in 1741 but after the Crimean War Russia decided the territory was too vulnerable to hold and in 1867 she began to hint at selling it to the United States. The treaty was finally completed March 30, 1867, the agreed purchase price being $7,200,000. After it was accepted by the Senate April 9, Johnson proclaimed it binding June 30.

Latin Common Market

Many Hurdles Ahead

By ALFREDO SILVA-CARVALLO

A PROMISE of future prosperity for some 300 million people in 20 Western Hemisphere nations is offered by the proposed Latin American common market.

Long cherished, the hope of establishing a Latin American common market by Latin Americans for Latin Americans seems closer to realization now that the United States has voiced its enthusiastic approval and pledged its support.

Although Latin America has been talking about economic integration for 20 years or more, it was not until 1960 that the Latin nations signed the Treaty of Montevideo and took the first step toward a common market.

That document established the Latin American Free Trade Area, a sort of United States of Latin America, in which commerce eventually was to move without restriction as in the United States.

The following year, 1961, the Charter of Punta del Este, which set up the Alliance for Progress, proclaimed that one of the Alliance objectives was "to strengthen existing agreements on economic integration, with a view to the ultimate fulfillment of aspirations for a Latin American common market that will expand and diversify trade among the Latin American countries and thus contribute to the economic growth of the region."

The subject was discussed repeatedly at inter-American conferences. But it was not until the presidential summit conference in Punta del Este last April 12-14 that the Latin presidents formally resolved "to create progressively, beginning in 1970, the Latin American common market, which shall be substantially in operation in a period of not more than 15 years."

Although the United States is not to be a member, President Johnson added his enthusiastic approval, declaring his firm support for "this promising Latin American initiative."

Having taken the plunge, the Latin countries are now facing up to the need to follow their brave words with concrete action.

Latin Americans well know that their part of the hemisphere is studded with diversity, that their countries are at differing levels of political, social and economic evolution. Politically, there is little unity. Some countries are ruled by de facto regimes. Others are democracies in appearance only. Some are genuinely representative governments.

Social inequalities exist, although most countries in Latin America have passed laws and created institutions to correct many evils and to improve health, housing, education and the living standards of the masses.

From the tropical lands in the north to the antarctic regions at the bottom of the world, only a fraction of Latin America's potential has been exploited. The result is that some nations depend on only a few items for their export trade.

There are Latin nations, however, that have developed large and small industries. Steel, oil, petrochemicals, cement and other industrial products are being turned out in a number of countries. Chemical, food, textile and other consumer industries are even more numerous. Their further development requires the stimulus of larger than national markets in many cases.

Abolition or reduction of tariffs and removal of other barriers to trade between the Latin countries, as envisioned under the common market, is the obvious solution. It has worked with success in the five-nation Central American Common Market area, but results have been meagre in the larger Latin American Free Trade Association.

As the hemisphere's presidents affirmed in Punta del Este, much more is needed. Improvements in transportation, including the building of roads and whatever else is necessary for the movement of both people and goods throughout the continent, is a task of highest priority.

Completion of the Pan American Highway is a specific project that would contribute to increased trade. The same may be said of the Bolivian Highway, the visionary plan Peru has undertaken to build a road along the Andes, first to link undeveloped Amazonian regions of Peru with the central coastal areas, and then to connect with road systems of Peru's neighbors to the north, east and south.

None of these things is easy, as the presidents recognized when they set 1970 for the start of a 15-year-long effort. Attitudes, too, must be changed.

In some countries, industries already have been established without consideration for the lack of raw materials and fuel. Nations with little or no iron or coal have borrowed and invested millions of dollars to set up steel plants. Other countries have built costly artificial fertilizer plants instead of buying nitrates or fish meal from their neighbors.

Intelligent planning, with consideration of the availability of materials and markets, will be required to insure that industries founded on the natural resources of a country be produced.

Too, much work remains to be done in the political field. Some countries apparently still have to be convinced that communism, for example, is more than a domestic political phenomenon; one day fought and the other discarded.

Others have a deficient sense of private enterprise and little respect for freedom of press or speech.

The United States already has pledged efforts to liberalize conditions affecting basic Latin American exports. The Latin also want elimination of discriminatory preferences against their exports, particularly in Europe where the former African colonies of the European powers are encroaching on what used to be Latin markets.

Latin Americans are firmly convinced that the United States and Canada would benefit with the establishment of a Latin American common market and the subsequent development of their countries. As an Argentine newspaper publisher put it: "Europe is saturated. Africa will have at least 40 years of the bottom of the world, only Western world. "Where is the United States to go for expansion in the coming years? To Latin America only."

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk put it another way to the Senate foreign relations committee: "We are confident that the achievement of a Latin American common market would make possible a more rapid rate of economic growth and would thereby contribute to the social and political stability of the hemisphere," he said. "At the same time, as the formation of a common market contributes to higher incomes in Latin America, we are convinced that the area will become a better trading partner of the United States."

Too Few of Them

Enlightened Fools

From the Winnipeg Free Press

IT TAKES a very wise man to play the fool. The term "fool," of course, has lost much of its supplementary meaning over the long years since every great court had its resident "fool" to act as a pricker of egot, a twacker of pompous noses, a blaker of backside and an exposé of true folly. The ancient "fool" was a sort of safety valve on a society that, being rich and powerful and, in many cases, a law unto itself, tended to develop maddled values and give itself airs. The fool, with his dry comments, provided the touch of lemon to take away the cloying sweetness of the sugar of power. While others incurred wrath for using a sharp tongue, the fool was licensed to speak his mind. A chartered gaddy, he rushed in where angels feared to tread.

Mort Sahl and Lenny Bruce have, in recent times, taken over the modified role of the licensed "fool," but now a Mr. Joachim Foljka, a citizen of Vancouver, who is so wise that he only works regularly every second year, has dressed himself in monkey and appears frequently at the foot of a stone column outside Vancouver's court house to comment on the follies of mankind. "I am a fool and I am everybody," he says.

Tradition has it that society is topsy-turvy and everybody is a fool except the fool who knows he is a fool.

The enlightened Mr. Foljka may have stumbled on one of the great last truths. The city of Vancouver, whose officers are at present wondering whether to grant Mr. Foljka a fool's licence, probably fails to realize how fortunate it is.

The world, as everybody knows by now, is peopled with fools, and the man who knows this to be so is halfway down the road to salvation. The "fool" or jester is aware of the shortness of life and he understands the vanity of human aspirations.

Shakespeare's Feste, a melancholy man who saw only too well what the world was all about, put his finger on one of the abiding truths when he said: "Wit and 'nt be by will, put me into good fooling. These vices that think they have these vices of off prove fools, and I that am sure that I lack these, may pass for a wise man. For what says Quinapulus? 'Better a witty fool than a foolish wit.'"

This world contains too few enlightened fools. Mr. Foljka is doing good work. We need more like him. Perhaps even at the United Nations or in Parliament.

Let Them Return to Pre-War Frontiers!

Wanted: Russian Example

By K. C. THALER

A British newspaper has published a suggestion from one of its readers that the United Nations, when considering demands on Israel, should also call on Russia to set an example by returning to its pre-war frontiers.

The call has struck a chord in the memories of diplomats who have not forgotten the vast territorial gains made by Russia after the Second World War, both at the expense of its enemies and friends.

The Soviet Union incorporated in its borders an area of more than 180,000 square miles with a population of nearly 24,000,000 between 1940 and 1945.

NATO's authoritative publications, listing the details of these conquests, show that Russia has taken not only most of East Prussia from pre-war Germany, but that it also has incorporated almost half of pre-war Poland into the U.S.S.R. It also has taken Romanian and Finnish territory plus the three Baltic republics of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

Millions of people have been either forcibly taken over by Russia in this process or have been expelled or, to use a courtesy title, "exchanged" or allowed to go.

Gone are the Germans from East Prussia. The Poles in former eastern Poland — taken over by Russia to straighten out its strategic frontier — have been resettled in former German territory, which has been taken by Poland.

The territories of East Poland annexed by Russia amount to nearly 70,000 square miles with a population of nearly 12,000,000 people, according to the NATO yearbook.

Those in East Prussia had well over 1,000,000 Germans. Nearly 4,000,000 people lived in the areas of Bukovina and Bessarabia snatched by Russia from its Romanian friends.

The former German areas, now taken over by Poland once had a population of over 6,000,000. Most of them have gone.

All this happened not centuries ago, but little over 20 years ago.

Reds, Westerners Try to Cash In Scramble Starts for Oil

By CARL MOLLINS, from London

The aftermath of the Arab-Israel war includes some ironic manoeuvring by both Communist and Western interests to cash in on the dislocation of Middle Eastern oil production and trade.

Behind the diplomatic moves to get a political settlement between Arab and Jew, international promoters are quickly at work to fill supply and production gaps left by the Arab campaign to wipe out British and American business interests in Arab countries.

The Russians, loud in support of the Arab cause against Israel and Anglo-American interests, are reported to have launched an oil-sales drive to capture a share of the West European market vacated in the last two weeks by the Arabs.

The French, carefully fostering an appearance of political neutrality, are said to be intent on joining the Italians, Spaniards and Japanese in offering to stand in for the British and American companies in exploiting Arab oil resources.

Efforts to arrange replacement oil supplies and resume production in Arab oilfields can be explained as an example of international co-operation to meet an emergency. But in British eyes, the efforts tend to be seen more as cynical attempts to take advantage of the fact that the British are persona non grata in the Arab world.

Britain is the industrial country with most to lose both in reduced oil supplies and financial interests by the Arab action.

The British government board of trade has rejected several new applications for licences to import Soviet oil, but is understood to be ready to change its attitude if the supply situation gets worse.

Italian, Spanish and Japanese businessmen have been negotiating with governments of Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia — where British and American oil interests are concentrated — about production.

One report said Iraq has reached agreement with Italian and Spanish companies to ensure continued production and marketing of Iraqi oil.

The official French attitude of neutrality is seen in London as fitting in with President de Gaulle's aim to extend French influence generally — primarily a cultural rather than a commercial aim.

Arrests Confirm Operations

Castro Spending Millions To Export Red Revolution

By CARL T. BOWAN

From Washington

Some weeks ago Mexican security police swooped down on Victor Hugo Martinez and arrested him for arms smuggling. Martinez, a member of Guatemala's Communist Party, had been shipping arms from Mexico to rebels in Guatemala.

Mexican police staked out at Martinez's house and were soon rewarded with an interesting visitor.

Julian Lopez Diaz, third secretary and cultural attache of the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City, came to call on Martinez. Mexican police grabbed him and found that he had $6,000 in small bills in his pocket.

Lopez, a former Cuban intelligence agent in Chile, had been directing the entire Cuban arms smuggling program from the embassy in Mexico. The Mexican government ousted him. But not before Mexican agents learned that Lopez's wife was Irina Trapote, the daughter of Victor Trapote, a Soviet undercover agent.

And Irina is the ex-wife of Ramiro Valdez, Cuba's minister of the interior and the boss of both the secret police apparatus inside Cuba and the agents and other machinery designed to "export revolution" to other countries.

Three weeks ago, four Cubans were surprised delivering men and supplies to the shores of Venezuela. Two who were seized alive confessed to being military officers and members of a special commando unit in Cuba's General Directorate of Intelligence (DGI).

The two commandos were carrying $10,000 in U.S. bills. Castro confirmed that they were "Cuban volunteers" and said he was "proud of 'em."

In Bolivia four days ago, the army claimed that 17

Cubans are fighting with a guerrilla group that has killed 30 Bolivian soldiers in recent jungle clashes. Bolivians claim Cuban-trained Brazilians, Argentines and Peruvians are also in the rebel group — and that the whole band is financed by Castro.

I have been told by authoritative sources that Cuba's DGI is now spending $1,100,000 a month to support stepped-up guerrilla warfare in Latin America. Most of the money is to train insurgents, with some 3,000 latinos already trained in Havana and returned to their native countries since Castro came to power.

If Cuban subversion worsens, as many diplomats say it will, a name to remember is Manuel Pinero, known as "Barba Roja," or "Red Beard." Pinero (educated at Columbia University and married to a Connecticut girl (Lorna Birdsell), is director of the DGI and as such heads a Cuban espionage apparatus far more elaborate than either U.S. citizens or Latin Americans realize.

A half-dozen Soviet advisers are attached to the DGI and the Russians clearly are financing Pinero's operation, directly and indirectly.

Castro has publicly listed Bolivia, Colombia, Guatemala and Venezuela as targets for revolution.

Bolivia appears to be the area of prime concentration now, primarily because it is militarily weak and its political structure is fragile and beset by rivalries.

But the apple of Castro's envious eye is Venezuela. He would like her oil to give Cuba the strong economic base with which to carry out what Castro thinks is his role as savior of Latin America.

But Venezuela is also the prime target because it is the best example of a democracy in the area and the Communists feel it cannot be permitted to thrive.

Climate Changes in Vietnam

Buddhists Spent Force

By BARREY KRAMES

From Hue, Vietnam

South Vietnam's militant Buddhists, who once could put tens of thousands of demonstrators into the streets, now are a weak, divided force without a cause.

The opinion of Vietnamese and Americans is that the militant segment never recovered from the loss of face last year when an all-out effort failed to topple the regime of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

The leader of the militants, Thich Venerable Tri Quang now is virtually powerless.

His attempts to stir up trouble during Buddha's birthday celebration in May drew scant attention.

For the first time since 1963, when the Buddhists launched the first "struggle movement" that led to the overthrow of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime, Hue University is finishing an uninterrupted school year.

Hue, the ancient capital of imperial Vietnam, remains the centre of militant Buddhism, with other pockets in Saigon and Da Nang.

The rebel followers of Tri Quang are shadowed by government police and are not allowed to travel between the major Buddhist centres.

Tri Quang and the leader of the "moderate" Buddhists, Thich Tam Chau, joined in the opposition to Ky last year but now are at each other's throat. Tam Chau calls Tri Quang "Communist-inclined," and Tri Quang accuses the Tam Chau Buddhists of "treason and open collusion with U.S. dollars."

Tri Quang's group remains vehemently anti-government. Ky and other government officials appear at Buddhist ceremonies, and the government permitted Tam Chau to organize a parade of 10,000 persons through Saigon on Buddha's birthday.

Although the decline of the militant Buddhists can be attributed mainly to their fragmentation, other forces are at work to keep them in check.

Ky has lived up to the promises he made to the Buddhists last year: A constitutional assembly has been elected and is drafting laws for the election of a president, vice-president and a two-house legislature later this year.

'Quiet Hour' Ends Gossip

AP, from Lansing, Mich.

The 250 employees at the Michigan Millers' Mutual Insurance Co. don't talk to each other from the start of work at 8 a.m. until 9 a.m.

And for that hour, no outgoing phone calls are made, no one walks around, no routine inter-departmental communications are made.

The company says the "quiet hour" has increased efficiency.

"A few minutes talk about last night's TV show doesn't sound like much," treasurer Harold C. Roast said, "but when you take a couple hundred people at 10 or 15 minutes apiece — that's a lot of company time."

For Floats

'Good Sense' Needed

Two accidents marred Saturday's Baccus Day parade in Esquimalt, but it is unlikely that alterations can be made in regulations to prevent future mishaps.

During the parade benches on one of the floats collapsed, pinning the feet of 12 girls on the Softball Association's float beneath them.

SAFETY FACTOR

Parade Marshal Coun. Roy Elphick said Monday that the committee relied upon the participants to see to the safety factor.

"I don't quite know what we could do in the way of regulations or inspections to stop accidents happening," he said.

Committee chairman Harold Moist said floats were not inspected before they were put in the parade. "I don't know of any place where they are inspected," he added.

"I'm sure that even the Victoria Day parade relies upon the good sense of the participants."

63 ENTRIES

This year's parade, with a total of 1,000 children in it, attracted 63 entries — 16 more than last year.

During a six-hour pancake breakfast some 600 people were served, and two salmon barbecues Saturday and Sunday attracted 400 people.

Turnout for Sunday's events was so heavy it created a traffic jam on the Gorge Bridge, which is being reconstructed.

PARK JAMMED

About 2,000 attended divine service, organized by the United Church Explorers in the park.

It was followed by a band concert, barbecue and treasure hunt.

"We curtailed many events, and didn't advertise Sunday's events, because of the problem this year with the bridge, but the park was jammed," said Mr. Moist. "I don't know what would have happened if we had advertised a full program."

Highway Inquest Ordered

An inquest will open Wednesday into the death of a 24-year-old American who died in hospital of injuries received when the car in which he was traveling hit a rock outcrop on Trans-Canada Highway at about 4:30 a.m. Saturday.

David Arralanes of Norwalk, California, died in St. Joseph's Hospital about eight hours after the smash.

Coroner Edmund Jorre de St. Jorre has called the inquest for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel, 1155 Fort. It will be adjourned after medical evidence has been heard.

Two others in the car, Christopher Windle, 18, and Hubertus Ris, 21, both of Ladysmith, are in St. Joseph's. Windle is in fairly good condition and Ris is still fair.

Credit Union Convention

Streamlining Plans Approved

British Columbia credit unionists endorsed proposals to streamline credit union operations in the province at a meeting in the Empress Hotel Monday.

The meeting, a special joint session of the B.C. Central Credit Union and the B.C. Credit Union League (the fiscal and administrative arms of credit unions in B.C.), proposed integration and eventual amalgamation of the two bodies.

Delegates at the joint session, representing 287 credit unions with a total membership of 278,413, approved the move as an answer to increasing competition in the savings and loans field.

WORLD FORCE

Today, the delegates begin deliberations in the annual convention of the central credit union and Wednesday they begin the three-day annual league convention.

Monday, A. R. Glen of Nanaimo, president of CUNA International, a worldwide association of credit unions, outlined the CUNA operation as a force on the world scene.

"We are working with the United Nations to lead money for the purchase of farming equipment needed to grow food and raise cattle in backward countries," he said.

"We are bringing hope to thousands of people who have no access to normal credit ...

Only when a man is free financially can he know the greater freedoms of education and self-determination."

Membership in the province's credit unions has loans in force of more than $175,000,000, total share-saving accounts and deposits of $170,000,000, and received credit union dividends of more than $1,000,000 last year.

Armed Forces Plan Display

The spotlight will be on servicemen Saturday at Patricia Bay as members of the land, sea, and air forces join in presenting a thrilling spectacle for Armed Forces Day.

Even the much-maligned cooks will have their turn in the spotlight as about 20 cooks from ships and military installations of the Pacific Maritime Command put on a mouth-watering display of decorated hams, turkeys, meat and pastry dishes featuring a Centennial theme.

The fancy cookery will be presented by the team of cooks under PO Colin Henderson of CFB Esquimalt, a veteran of 20 years' experience in galleys of warships.

On the more militant side, an anticipated 12,000 people will watch a two-hour air show, climaxing a day of informative and entertaining displays of the men from the five commands of the Canadian services and the coast guard, doing the jobs they are trained to do.

The destroyer-escort HMCS Mackenzie will be alongside the jetty at Patricia Bay and will be holding open house between noon and 4:30.

As prelude of Armed Forces Day, a 68-man guard will present the ceremony of the flags, an armed forces salute to the Canadian centennial and the new Canadian flag.

This ceremony, which takes place at 8:30 p.m. Friday on the west soccer pitch in Beacon Hill Park, consists of trooping the flags, the crash of field guns, rattle of small arms fire, and the stirring beat of military music by the CFB Esquimalt band. Other exhibits also will be on display.

The guard is a composite one, from the ships of Maritime Pacific Command and CFB Esquimalt.

Jayne's Child Beaten?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Jayne Mansfield, herself a bride and mother at 16, faced the problem Sunday of her own 15-year-old daughter, who with welts and bruises on her body, turned herself into police.

The girl, Jayne Marie Mansfield, walked into West Los Angeles police station Saturday, saying a male friend of her mother beat her with a leather belt, slapped and hit her.

Juvenile officers ordered photographs taken of the injuries of the girl's hips and lip.

Young Jayne had slipped out of the palatial, all-pink Sunset Boulevard home she shared with her mother and three younger brothers.

The girl arrived at the police station with lawyer Bernard Cohen.

"Her uncle called me to see what I could do to help her," Cohen told a reporter.

Cohen said he would seek to have the teen-ager placed in the custody of the uncle, brother of Paul Mansfield, whom the actress married May 6, 1950.

Young Jayne told her story to police Sgt. Shirley Maxwell, who took her to McLaren Hall, a police juvenile protective facility.

"The girl apparently didn't need any medical treatment," said a spokesman at McLaren Hall Sunday.

"The police action brought protests from the actress' lawyer and frequent companion, Samuel S. Brody, who said police had no right to take the girl to a juvenile facility."

Island Tries Canada Next

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—The leader of the Caribbean island of Anguilla appealed to Canada Monday for "direct association" after having tried Britain and the United States in vain.

Peter Adams, 56, who is directing the island's "independence" movement, signed a telegram sent to Prime Minister Pearson.

NO ELECTRICITY
"Please send a representative to discuss the matter," the message said. It was sent from San Juan by a friend of Adams because Anguilla has no communications of its own. Nor, for that matter, running water or electricity.

Last Friday, Adams sent a cable to President Johnson requesting similar association with the United States.

HOME RULE
Until last month, the islands of Anguilla, St. Kitts and Nevis formed a federation which was granted home rule by Britain last Feb. 27.

Anguilla seceded from the federation May 30, charging total neglect on the part of the central government at St. Kitts.

In reply to Adams' request for U.S. association, a state department official said Anguilla must first negotiate with Britain but Adams charged Britain had adopted a "hands-off" policy.

Cutdown on Quorum Draws Tory Blast

OTTAWA (CP) — A routine of spending worth millions of dollars.

Mr. Churchill jumped to his feet in protest. He said he had been delayed by a meeting of party House leaders called by the government.

The motion finally passed with Mr. Churchill and a handful of other Conservatives registering dissent in the voice vote.

DOWN TO EIGHT
The motion sought to reduce the justice committee quorum to eight members from 13. The committee has 25 members.

Mr. Churchill protested that this was the fourth committee to make such a request. With estimates work now being handled in the committees, it meant that eight or nine MPs were rushing through approval of spending worth millions of dollars.

Donald Macdonald (L.—Toronto Rosedale) said a meeting of the external affairs committee last Thursday was attended at the outset by eight Liberals and two opposition members.

He said Mr. Churchill himself turned up more than a half-hour late.

100-Gun Salute

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 100-gun salute will be fired from Brockton Point in Vancouver's Stanley Park to mark Canada's 100th anniversary. The Canadian Army agreed to fire the unusual salute after Vancouver city council asked that a scheduled 21-gun salute be expanded to equal Canada's age.

Safety Takes Priority Says Paddle Official

WINNIPEG (CP)—The safety and welfare of the paddlers taking part in the centennial voyageur canoe pageant takes priority and race portions on the Alberta to Montreal route will be stopped when conditions warrant, a pageant official said Sunday.

Vic Chapman of Ottawa, project officer, was commenting on statements made by Alberta team captain John Nikel of Edmonton, that the voyageurs were unhappy at the way the pageant is being run.

Chapman, in a telephone interview from Winnipegosis, Man., said Nikel's statements were uncalled for and not warranted.

Nikel said when the teams left The Pas, Man. at the start of Friday's run they were told the weather might be dangerous as they crossed Cedar Lake 275 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

Nikel said the Alberta team was two miles ahead of the other canoes when Mathews, chief voyageur, decided to halt the race portion.

Sudden-Dollar Bite Under Fire

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The Carter Commission recommendation that gifts, inheritances and trusts should be taxed in the same way as earned income, was attacked at the annual general meeting last week of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of B.C.

In a panel discussion, William M. Carter, a Vancouver lawyer, did not agree that the dollar inherited should be treated the same as the dollar earned, and that there should be, as now, two ways of dealing with the regular dollar and the sudden dollar.

He suspected the Commission had a bias against "empire building" even on a modest scale by denying the right to save and to pass it on to the next generation.

"BUCK IS BUCK"

"There is no way to stimulate most people than by giving them the ability to earn and save," he said.

Mrs. Gyneth McGregor of Toronto, a member of the Carter Commission, defended the "buck is a buck" theory as the only way to secure tax equality.

The fact that capital gains, windfalls, gambling winnings, damages for loss of income, strike pay and unemployment were omitted from the present tax base shows how much inequity existed in the present arrangement of taxation.

Mrs. McGregor also hoped the legislators would not pick out of the Carter recommendations the things they like and discard those they don't.

"If they do this the whole structure of the proposed system will be damaged and possibly shattered, and we would end up with another system of shreds and patches," she concluded.

B.C. Sugar Refinery Ltd. has reported in the six months period ended March 31, its net profit rose to $1,224,000 from $1,168,000 in the corresponding period a year ago, while its sales in the same period fell by $300,000.

FIRM GOES TO U.S.

MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. is going to the United States to have been filed with the SEC. The bonds will be dated July 15, 1967, and will not be called for refunding for 10 years.

The interest rate and the price of the offering have not yet been announced.

OVERLOADED

MacMillan Bloedel has been considering this issue for some time in the Canadian market, but an overloaded local market for corporation securities sell its several-times delayed offering is expected in late July.

The registration statement caused them to turn to the U.S. The fund will be used for new plants and expansions.

Centennial Spirits Too High, Don't Sell

TORONTO (CP)—While the centennial spirit has infected most Canadians, commercially-produced spirits of the bottled variety seem destined to sit out the celebrations on the shelf.

Canadians are not buying the new 33 1/3-ounce bottles of centennial whisky introduced last month.

A spokesman for the Liquor Control Board of Ontario blames the price of $10.25 a bottle.

"How many people are going to spend that amount for a 33 1/3-ounce bottle when they can get a 25-ounce bottle for half that?" he asked.

"To date there has been no great demand for the centennial whisky. Some American tourists take it home because they can't get it in the U.S."

The whisky is more expensive because it has been aged 15 years compared with the six to eight years of normal brands.

Canadian Factories Dollar Profit Drops

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian manufacturers had an average profit of 4.7 cents on the sales dollar during 1966, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association reported Monday.

This was two cents less than in 1965, and compared with 5.4 cents in 1963 and 1964.

The CMA obtained the information from 912 companies which answered its annual survey this year.

The companies had aggregate net sales of $14,365,632,000, said R. G. Lockey, chairman of the CMA's public relations committee. This was about $1,000,000,000 more than in 1965. "Despite record sales 119 companies lost money on the year's operations."

DOLLAR BREAKDOWN
Of their profit, the firms paid out an average of 2.1 cents on the dollar as dividends to shareholders, and retained 2.6 cents in the business.

The rest of the sales dollar was spent on: Materials, 49.7 cents; wages and salaries, 19.9 cents; excise and sales taxes,

Nicklaus' Great Win Set Up By Saturday Night Practice

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (UPI) — Forevermore the record book will tell you Jack Nicklaus won the 1967 U.S. Open golf championship Sunday, June 18, with a record 275 when he sank a 22-foot putt on the last green at Baltusrol Golf Club at 6:35 p.m. EDT.

The record book will be lying. Nicklaus disclosed today he actually won the tournament 24 hours earlier in the fading twilight of Saturday evening when he spent an hour in private practice after the third-round 72 that had left him one stroke off the pace in the open.

FOUND TWO ERRORS

"In that hour I discovered two things I had been doing wrong," Nicklaus disclosed. "I was able to correct them, or else I would not have won."

Nicklaus, who revamped his game entirely after that disaster three months ago when he failed to survive the cut in the Masters tournament, said he discovered one fault during 45 minutes spent on the practice tee when "I went through every club in my bag trying to figure it out."

"Then I got it," he said. "After the Masters I changed my hitting style from right-to-left to left-to-right, meaning that now I am playing to fade the ball a little to the right. But in the practice session, I suddenly realized that although I was playing to fade I was aiming right at the target, instead of slightly to the left of the target."

SHORTENED STROKE

"Then I went over to the putting green" he said. "And there I discovered that I was unconsciously slipping back into my old habit of a long putting stroke. I corrected that with my new short putting stroke, and I think I putted pretty well in the last round."

Actually Nicklaus did everything "pretty well" in that final round — a five-under-par 65 that left Arnold Palmer four strokes behind, even with his final-round 69. Included in his Sunday bag were eight birdies, five of them on the first nine, and three bogeys, none after the 10th hole. The spectacular show broke up what had been an amazingly close open. Behind Palmer's second-place 279 came Don January with 72-281, defending champion Billy Casper with 72-282, Lee Trevino with 70-283, and three players tied at 284 — Bob Goaly, Gardner Dickinson, and Deane Beman.

AMATEUR FADES

Marty Fleckman the 23-year-old Port Arthur, Tex., amateur who led after the first and third rounds, finally ran into disaster with an 80 that included 10 bogeys and no birdies and left him at 288.

Nicklaus erased the tournament record of 276 set by Ben Hogan in 1948 — but he did it "accidentally."

"I came here to win a golf tournament, not to set a record," Nicklaus said.

"When I came to the 18th tee there were two things on my mind," Nicklaus said. "The first was that I had a four-shot lead, and the only way I could lose was for Arnie to shoot a three and for me to get seven or worse. The other was I remembered Arnie telling how he lost the open last year — because he had been thinking about breaking Hogan's record."

PLAYED SAFE

"So I forgot about the record. I played only to get a six or better, because then I couldn't lose even if Arnie had an eagle three."

Nicklaus drove on the last hole with a No. 1 iron and the ball landed in the right rough near a television cable.

He was permitted a free drop and then continued his safety-first play by hitting "a fat eight iron" short of the ditch. Then it was a No. 1 iron again, a 280-yard poke which left him on the edge of the green.

Nicklaus read the green perfectly. His putt rolled right and as it appeared as if it was to miss the hole, broke back on line and went in for a birdie four.

NEVER BETTER

The perfect putt clinched one of the finest rounds ever shot in the U.S. Open, and it came after Nicklaus had made an inauspicious start by missing an eight-foot putt to bogey the second hole.

He made up for that miscue in a hurry, scoring birdies on the next three holes with putts of 12, three and 15 feet. Nicklaus missed the green on the sixth and left a putt hanging on the lip of the cup but was back with birdies on the seventh and eighth holes.

Counting the birdie he had made on 17 and 18 on Saturday, that gave him seven birdies in 10 holes.

PERFECT APPROACHES

Hitting prodigious drives and amazingly accurate irons, Nicklaus birdied the 12th and 14th with putts of five and three feet before getting his eighth birdie on the finishing hole.

His final card showed nine threes without an eagle and he had eight one-putt greens on the 7,015-yard, par 70 layout.

Palmer played steadily but could never mount a charge against the near-perfect golfer. Nicklaus was playing, Palmer finished birdie-birdie to make sure of the runner-up spot and the $15,000 which pushed his 1967 earnings past the $100,000 point.

Enchalade Wins Featured Gallop

VANCOUVER (CP)—A crowd of 4,366 watched Enchalade win the featured seventh race at Exhibition Park Monday.

The eight-year-old gelding, owned by Margaret Walter and ridden by Jo Egan, broke well from the gate but then ducked to the inside and was well out of the early running.

In the last quarter, the winner came very fast on the extreme outside and managed to get to the wire by nearly a length over second-place Junior Times.

The favorite, On The Muscle, was third after forcing the early pace. Enchalade paid $10.00, $4.90 and $3.40, and ran the 6 1/4 furlongs in 1:18.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING STIMULATES BUYING

WHAT THIS CENTENNIAL NEEDS IS A GOOD 5¢ CIGAR

One of the best things about the good old days was you could buy a great little cigar for a nickel. Rising costs put an end to that. But now Muriel has found a way to turn the clock back. A technological breakthrough in cigar manufacturing makes it possible for us to get a great little cigar for a nickel. Our new Tipalet is so smooth and mild-smoking as you'd expect a Muriel cigar to be. We'd say our motto is just about perfect.

Ecuador Ousts U.S. Net Team

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Ecuador's lightly regarded Davis Cup team dealt the United States a stunning blow Monday when Francisco Guzman defeated Arthur Ashe and sealed Ecuador's victory in the American zone finals.

Guzman defeated Ashe 6-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, to give Ecuador an unbeatable 3-1 lead in the best-of-five series.

Guzman's victory made the final singles match between Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., and Miguel Olvera meaningless.

The singles loss was the second in two days for Ashe, the United States' leading amateur from Richmond, Va. Olvera beat him 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, tying the final at 1-1 Sunday.

Olvera then teamed with Guzman for a doubles victory over Clark Graebner and Marty Riessen.

Ecuador's victory puts it into the interzone semi-finals against the winner of the European Zone A final between Spain and Russia.

Last year the United States won the American zone final by

IT'S A HABIT

The defeat by Ecuador marks the sixth time in the last eight years that the United States has failed to get through the preliminaries and reach the challenge round.

DOUG BENTLEY, former NHL player, has been appointed coach of the Edmonton Nuggets of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

Lewis Fritchard, 17-year-old power-boat driver from Whitby, Ont., was killed instantly when his plane flipped from his hydroplane and over at a race Sunday in Dumville, Ont.

DAN GURNEY, the lone American among 18 starters, drove his U.S.-made Eagle to a 53-second victory Sunday in the Belgian grand prix car race.

The victory was the first by an American driver in an American made car in a grand prix race.

Rain Saturday washed out the Indy 200 at Mosport, Ont. The race was rescheduled for July 1.

Southern California's

440-yard relay team broke the world record with a time of 38.6 seconds at the NCAA meet Saturday in Provo, Utah.

Six-Aside Tourney To Albions

Albion Cricket Club won the Mainwaring Trophy Sunday at the annual six-a-side cricket tournament by defeating Incoogs in the final at Beacon Hill Park.

Mickey Shanks scored 43 not out as Albions replied with 59 for one after Incoogs had scored 56 for three.

Allan Carter bowled a hat trick in the semi-final victory over Cowichan II and scored 18 runs in the first over of the first round victory over Alocs in which Albion scored 71 runs, the high score of the day.

Captain Dave Thompson, Les Clarke, John Shearer and wicket keeper Kevan Hull played steadily throughout the day for the winners.

The Cagliari soccer club of Italy was "put on notice" to mend its ways Monday following its involvement in a second riot.

Other clubs in the United Soccer Association were instructed to view their crowd control measures.

In Toronto Sunday, 3,000 angry fans from a crowd of 15,178 swarmed onto the pitch with eight minutes left in the Toronto (Hibernian)-Chicago (Cagliari) game.

REFEREE MAILED

The score was tied 1-1 when referee Art King awarded Hibs a free kick. They scored. But the Italian side protested King had not whistled for the kick to be taken. King said the rules don't require him to whistle and let the goal stand.

At this point, the Italians picked up the ball and walked off the field. That's when the large Italian element in the Toronto crowd invaded the pitch.

King was punched and kicked before he was rescued by police. Toronto has been given the two points from the game.

Strike Prevents Completion Of Pan-Am Games Stadium

WINNIPEG (CP)—A carpenters' strike which began June 8 has killed any chance of completing the new stands at Winnipeg Stadium in time for the Pan-American Games.

John McMahon, chairman of the Pan-Am facilities board, said Monday.

The games open July 23 and continue to Aug. 6.

The $324,000, 3,400-seat section of stands has been the object of concern since negotiations broke down between the Winnipeg Builders' Exchange and Local 343 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

The union is seeking a 85-cent-an-hour increase over a two-year period while the exchange has offered 65 cents. Journeymen now are paid $3.05 an hour.

About 300 of the 1,200 striking carpenters are employed on various Pan-Am projects.

Mr. McMahon said: "Not only are we unable to finish the job at the stadium, but we are also being held up at the velodrome and the Pan-Am pool."

He said earlier that delays at the pool and velodrome were not as serious as at the stadium.

Dirty, Confined Weekend Big Help to Civil Defence

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The 669 volunteers in the U.S. civil defence's largest simulated fallout shelter experiment emerged late Sunday from two austere days of confinement, dirty but joyful.

"Whoopee," shouted a young boy, emerging from the old building where volunteers had spent a cramped weekend without furniture, a bathroom, or running water and eating civil defence rations.

"How was it?" a reporter asked a young mother holding two small children by the hand and clutching a torn bag of possessions.

"No comment," she said.

"Would you do it again?" "No."

Gordon Craddock of Atlanta who was in the shelter with his wife and six of his eight children said:

"It was unbelievable. It shows what people can do if they want to co-operate. About 50 per cent of the volunteers were Negroes, and they and the whites got along beautifully, sleeping side by side."

The two days were full of constant noise — children playing, songsters, blaring radios — and little privacy. Each volunteer had staked off his area of concrete floor with an air mattress or blanket. Temperatures reached 85 degrees in the shelter.

"We've collected a lot of information," said Dr. John Hanes, director of civil defence research at the University of Georgia, which is under contract with the U.S. government for such studies.

"It will take months to evaluate."

By Sunday, the lack of privacy and comfort had taken its toll.

Eighty-one of the original 750 volunteers dropped out. Each participant was paid from $25 to $45, according to his age.

Pill-Taking Wives Suffer Less Anxiety

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Wives who continue to use birth control pills show increased interest in sex, while those who quit the pill often show less, a four-year psychiatric study finds.

The pill-taking wives suffer less from depression and anxiety, and their husbands generally benefit psychologically also.

And wives who quit the pill may do so as a way of fighting back against dominant husbands. This tends to make their husbands more anxious.

PSYCHOLOGICAL SIDE

The study, first made in the U.S. of psychological factors in use of birth control pills, was described Monday to the American Medical Association by Dr. Frederick J. Ziegler and David A. Rodgers of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, Sali Ann Kriegsmann of Chevy Chase, Md., and Dr. Purvis L. Martin of San Diego, Calif., where the study centred.

It involved psychological testing before and during use of the pills by 24 couples, 15 of whom stayed on pills throughout the study, while nine women gave up.

Among the main findings, said Dr. Ziegler, a psychiatrist, were:

Both groups of women had about the same amount of annoying side effects, such as headache and nausea, from the pills.

TOLEERANT

Wives who continued the pills are apparently "willing to tolerate these annoyances if they enjoy sexuality, if they don't think their husbands are being excessively demanding sexually, and if they feel general responsibility for managing family affairs."

MORE FREQUENT

They retained more interest in sex relations than the other wives, "to the point that husbands estimated on the average their wives desired more frequent sexual relations than they did themselves."

Wives who quit pills consistently regarded their husbands as wanting intercourse on the average "more than half again as often as they themselves would like."

POSSIBLE PROTEST

Side effects of the pills were used as an excuse to stop, but could be a protest against dominance by putting responsibility for birth control upon the husband.

Husbands of wives who continued using pills seem to show improved morale and probably improved general effectiveness in living, while the other husbands showed opposite changes.

Russian Leader Doesn't Project Like Mr. K

The Man in the Grey Baggy Suit

By RICHARD JACKSON
Ottawa Bureau

NEW YORK — If his long black Cadillac, DPL-8 wasn't running all those mid-Manhattan traffic lights at 30 miles an hour, you'd scarcely guess that Soviet Premier Kosygin had come to town.

For the only time New York is made aware of him, really, is when police suddenly block off intersecting streets just long enough for the 70 limousines of his motorcade to whisper by. But it's long enough to pile up traffic for blocks.

His motorcade, like everything else about him operates in low key, and sounding no sirens, sort of sneaks up on the already hopelessly congested traffic, completing its parades.

Seven years ago when Soviet Premier Khrushchev roared into town, they could hear him for miles around when he went motorcading, and everybody cheerfully stopped, motorist and pedestrian, to enjoy the passing show.

HONKING HORNS

Now they've been getting all the inconvenience without any of the fun and they've been taking out their irritation on their horns, making the city honker than ever, and already it was just about the honkiest place either side of Paris.

Excepting for the motorcading and his rubber-necking hikers around town, he's being ignored.

NO INTEREST

Even at the UN, at least by the tourists who twice now haven't bothered to storm the place for a look at the gallery when he has been at the assembly, Saturday and again Monday.

There haven't been any crowds, even small ones, waiting when he arrives or leaves the Soviet UN mission and the UN.

So the police have been leaving those wooden street barriers for crowd control, stacked together, unused, looking like untidy piles of lumber.

NO HEADLINES

While the few remaining New York newspapers haven't been overlooking him exactly, he hasn't been the headline there. The cheeky Daily News, calling him "Kosy," played the Soviet premier as another tourist, doing the things that most tourists do, and not as a world leader.

The Times gave top position to the situation and not the man.

COLORFUL CHARACTER

(Not everybody remembers why Premier Khrushchev came to New York and the UN back in '60, but nobody will forget he was here, for he was the fascinated focus of all eyes, and would you believe it, has become something of a folk hero. Even the Times has recalled him and his wild ways with something of approval and just a hint of affection.

The Post saw President Johnson as the star of the UN-Middle East show and cast Premier Kosygin in a supporting role.

ONE PARAGRAPH

Finally the Wall Street Journal dismissed him with a single paragraph of 10 lines, as the fifth item in its front page. What's the News summary — which perhaps may be just about what the leader of world Communism would have expected of this organ of free financial enterprise.

The television news crews of Kosygin

NBC and CBS write him off as a flat grey personality.

"The joy just doesn't project," said an ABC news commentator.

Like on Sunday morning, when Premier Kosygin climbed into his limousine at the foot of Wall Street, with the reporters and photographers stampeding for their cars, and a woman tourist shouted, "Who is it?"

"Kosygin," someone shouted back.

"Who'd you say?" she calls. "Kosygin."

"Oh, him."

RUSSIAN SUITS

"And then you remember how it was with Premier Khrushchev, and you know nobody likely ever will be able to top Mr. K's act.

He even made those baggy Russian suits look good.

On Premier Kosygin, the dull grey suit just looks potato sacky.

But the police like him just the way he is.

That way it has been making it easy for them.

OVERDID A LITTLE

Chief Inspector Sanford Garelick who has been in charge of New York's finest guarding the health and physical well-being of Premier Kosygin, says he guesses, "We overdid it a little" when they mustered a bodyguard of better than 10,000 men for Premier Khrushchev.

And he's guessing they're still "overdoing it a little" in turning out less than 500 for this bodyguard detail.

So this time everything has been very quiet, very smooth and very polite with the police even saying, "Please" when asking the photographers to move back. Honest.

Even at the UN Monday, while his words might have been hot, Premier Kosygin remained cool, showing so little emotion or even expression as to appear aloof, or remote from the whole thing.

BOARD CHAIRMAN

He got off his speech at the UN like a chairman of the board presenting a report to the stockholders.

His news might have been highly unpleasant, but you'd never know it from his frozen grey face or from his unbroken dull monotone.

Then he scratched together his papers and left the podium.

BUSINESSLIKE

He scarcely could have been more briskly businesslike.

For an hour and four minutes he listened to the impassioned Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, and he looked for all the world like a man with his thoughts on anything but the business at hand.

Suddenly, with almost no word to his companions including Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, he was up and leaving, like somebody remembering an urgent business appointment.

FEW TO STARE

Then quickly into the limousine DPL-8 and quickly through the honking streets again to the Soviet UN mission.

And there was scarcely anybody to stare, much less picket or boo.

Maybe it was the weather. Unbearably hot and muggy Saturday and Sunday. Hard cold rain Monday.

Obtaining Courage Takes 'Til Morn

SLOUGH, England — Former Marine Jack Unlake, 48, was afraid of only one thing going to the dentist. So he drank 10 pints of bitter, two bottles of Irish stout and a bottle of sherry before having a tooth pulled. Unfortunately it was 2 a.m. when he had worked up enough courage and when he tried to get in he was arrested.

The judge said Unlake's story was so fantastic he believed it and discharged him.

MONTREAL — Mr. Justice Peter Shortless of the Quebec Superior Court has ruled a bench warrant for the arrest of dancer Lili St. Cyr, 50, will stand. The performance is alleged to have included a bathtub scene.

trunks President Johnson loaned him for a dip in the Camp David pool were too large. They slipped to his ankles when he dived into the pool. He wrestled them back up to his waist before surfacing.

REVELSTOKE — A 21-year-old Revelstoke man was killed in what police described as a game of "chicken" between two cars on a highway seven miles south of here. Police said Michael Francis White, a passenger in one of the cars which plunged off Highway 23, was killed instantly. The driver of the other car was reported in fair condition in hospital.

VANCOUVER — A University of British Columbia professor says he wants to "turn on a dog" using the hallucogenic drug marijuana as part of experiments on the effects of "pot" on humans. Dr. Harvey Sanders, a pharmacologist, said he is convinced that sooner or later scientists are going to have to get dogs, monkeys or other animals high if widespread ignorance about marijuana is to be dispelled.

Robert Shaw, deputy commissioner-general of the fair, extended Expo's welcoming hand to the African country as a crowded champagne reception given by Charles Sumbu, the pavilion's commissioner-general.

Last-minute traffic delays kept hostesses in yellow turbans and long African gowns waiting impatiently for the arrival of Jean-Marie Kitwa, Congolese minister of foreign commerce and his government's representative at the opening, which he termed "a happy day for us all."

Pavilion staff had worked into the small hours Sunday laying red carpets and finishing wall decorations to be ready in time for Mr. Kitwa's visit to the fair.

Shootup Hurts Seven
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Four persons aboard a Greyhound bus were shot and wounded by a passenger who jumped from her seat, pulled a revolver and began firing wildly as the bus approached the downtown depot Monday.

Three other persons were injured in a four-car pileup that resulted when the bus driver, one of those shot, lost control of the transcontinental double-decker.

Police identified the woman as Lillian Reeves, about 66, who had boarded the bus in St. Louis. She was placed under mental examination.

A passenger seated next to her, Weber Watson, 79, told police the woman said to him shortly before the incident: "Somebody doesn't like me here."

Three Charged in Flight

Two men were charged in central magistrate's court Monday with escaping lawful custody and a woman was charged with assisting one of them to escape custody.

Charged with escaping were Henry Klat, 22, of 1615 Belmont and Douglas Cobb, 22, of 1010 Inverness. They were both remanded to June 26 for plea.

Klat is also charged with being intoxicated in a public place and Cobb with obstructing a peace officer. They will also plead June 26 on these charges. Maureen Caterall, 21, of 544 Simcoe was charged with assisting Cobb to escape and was also remanded to June 26.

They were charged following an incident at Town and Country parking lot Saturday morning when a Saanich policeman scuffled with two men.

A 21-year-old man who gave a breathalyzer reading of .28 per cent was fined $450 and had his licence suspended for 18 months when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Prosecutor J. W. Anderson said Ned Memnock, CFB Esquimalt, swerved from the curb lane to the centre line of Esquimalt Road four times within one block Sunday afternoon.

Magistrate William Ostler told Memnock: "It is hard to imagine a worse possible hazard than you were on the street. You are very fortunate the crown did not charge you with being intoxicated. You undoubtedly were."

Nelson Canute of Duncan was fined $350 and had his licence suspended when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. Mr. Anderson said Canute drove on Douglas shortly after midnight Saturday without his headlights on. He gave a breathalyzer reading of .20 per cent.

A 23-year-old man who walked on Hinkinsop May 26 with a 15-year-old boy pleaded guilty to supplying liquor to a minor. Reginald Brummell, 941 Fullerton, had with him a mixture of rum and creme de menthe and gave the juvenile several drinks, court was told.

Thomas Edwards, 1425 Elford, was fined $150 when he pleaded guilty to driving while under suspension.

Sarban Singh Manhas, 4022 Martha, was fined $50 for consuming liquor in a public place.

Fined $40 each for careless driving: Eino Johnson, 2717 Shelbourne; Harold King, 1570 Prairie.

Survey Marker Pinned Down

The most carefully-defined point on the surface of British Columbia will be the object of an unveiling ceremony here Wednesday morning.

Called the Centennial Survey Marker, it is along the line of the painted board fence on the Government Street side of the new museum and archives, about halfway between the Government-Belleville corner and the Douglas Building.

It will be unveiled by Attorney-General Bonner at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, the same time as 11 other survey markers will be unveiled in provincial capitals, Ottawa and Whitehorse. They will be in memory of the work of Canada's earliest surveyors, who have established nation-wide reference points from which all locations are measured.

The 12 markers are tied to the continental North America datum, a vast geodetic network of survey control stations that have been pinpointed with the greatest accuracy man can devise.

B.C. Arts Conference To Hear UVic Head

Dr. Malcolm Taylor, president of the University of Victoria, next week will be a keynote speaker at a provincial arts conference set up to distribute the government's new $5,000,000 cultural fund.

A conference organizer said Monday there will be a number of delegates from Victoria and other Vancouver Island centres at the meeting, which will be held at the University of British Columbia, June 28 to 30.

He said the meeting seeks a "hard-headed consensus of need, potential and technique in the development of the arts in B.C."

Speakers, group discussions, panel presentations and workshops will zero in on every artistic and related activity, including symphony, opera, museums, crafts, theatre, theatre management and education.

Conference chairman is David S. Catton, a past president of the Vancouver Festival Society and vice-president of the Vancouver Art Gallery. Delegates from the various communities will begin exchanging ideas and opinions on June 28, with the aim of producing a report before the morning of June 30.

Short Holiday

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Leslie Norwood Carter, 21, of Memphis, who walked away from state prison during a baseball game, was hitch-hiking through Nashville when a motorist stopped for him. The driver was Allen Berry, a correctional officer at the prison. Carter was back behind bars a short time later.

Whopper For Soup

Huge mushroom 18 inches across will be cut up and dried, then used for mushroom soup by Ernie Knott, 424 Skinner Street, who found overgrown delicacy, called Agaric the Prince, feeding on fly ash beneath a rose bush at Victoria. Flywood Ltd. plant at Flanagan Bay. He said Dr. Adam Szczepinski, provincial botanist, told him it was a record size. —(Jim Ryan)

German Text Written

Three teachers of German in the University of Victoria's department of modern languages are co-authors of a text to be published June 30.

The book is 2,000 Jahre Deutsches Leben (2,000 years of German Life), a survey of German culture for first-year students of the language.

Its authors are Dr. J. Beattie MacLean, head of the German division, Frederick Krieger, an assistant professor, and Dr. Herta Hartmann, an associate professor.

The book will be used in the university's German 100 course this fall. The original text covers German life and personalities from the ancient Germanic tribes to the late Albert Schweitzer.

The project took two years, Mr. Krieger said. It was undertaken "because we felt we needed something which gives a better idea of German history, culture and art than the works now available."

The book is published by Prentice-Hall.

Boy, 14 Saved In Lake

Two brothers saved a 14-year-old boy from drowning at Thetis Lake shortly before noon Sunday. The rescuers were Gordon, 18, and Robert, 21, both of 1085 Laburnum.

Saved was Ricky Lam of 217 Cresco who was unconscious when pulled from the bottom of the lake through the joint efforts of the brothers.

They applied artificial resuscitation to revive Ricky, a non-swimmer. Mark Meeres, 18, of 4566 Hughes suffered a shoulder injury when he dived into Thetis Lake Sunday afternoon and struck an underwater obstacle.

Prize Idea Withers On Vine

The olive branch has withered on the vine, the Greater Victoria school board decided Monday. Last winter, after bitter salary negotiations between school board and teaching staff, board chairman Peter Bunn tried to make peace by announcing a new "Teacher of the Year" award. Monday he reported most teachers dislike the idea. A letter from the principals' and vice-principals' sub-association said the award was "not compatible with the principles of the teaching profession." "Should we let it wither on the vine or give it a shot of fertilizer?" Mr. Bunn asked the trustees. They decided to let it wither.

Half-Time Kindergartens Part of Long-Range Plan

Greater Victoria school district is moving toward half-time kindergartens. A first step was made by the school board Monday, when it authorized a possible doubling of kindergarten class time in five schools this fall. The board also approved opening kindergartens in the new Rockheights elementary school and at Victoria West elementary. IN ONE-THIRD Kindergartens now is offered in one-third of Greater Victoria's elementary schools. Children attend one-quarter time — a half-day for a week at a time, followed by a week off. District superintendent Joseph Cheil told the board "the long-range plan" is toward half-time kindergartens. Schools which may get half-time kindergartens this fall are Craigflower, Frank Hobbs, Monterey, North Ward and Victoria West. In other business, board chairman Peter Bunn denied a report that the board has been giving Vancouver architects

Heart of Gold Behind Paint

Penniless Child Sees Circus Glitter Early

By JIM HOFFMAN

The circus went into its act Monday as otherwise normal human beings tilted dangerously from great heights, climbed into cages with wild beasts and leaped onto lumbering elephants and horses to the screaming delight of children.

Featured animal act is Baron Julius von Uhl's nine lion show, in which he enters the cage along with all the young, not-exactly friendly animals.

In an interview, the 29-year-old trainer admitted he loves the danger.

"Those lions could kill a water buffalo with one swipe," he said. "It would take three shots of a high-powered rifle to stop the same buffalo."

"I like danger and these lions are the closest you can come to the real thing," he added.

Besides lions, there are also bears, elephants, horses, chimps and jungle cats.

There are trapeze acts, trampoline acts, an aerial ballet and, of course, clowns.

One of Monday's youngest circusgoers found a mummy clown with a red nose and a generous heart.

When head clown Gene Randow found Tracey Harris, 10, of Victoria, standing at the gate with no money he whisked her in for a free show.

Tracey Harris, 10, and generous clown

No doubt one of Tracey's favorite acts was the Sherber's chimpanzees which dressed up and strummed guitars in imitation of the Beatles. They also did acrobatic, trampoline and roller skate acts.

The Janmar "teenage" elephants performed while ride-

Sandra Pettus, 21, directed balancing and dance acts. She rode in "Roman style" and thrilled the audience by putting her head under the feet of the huge elephants.

Three Alaska black bears, under trainer Albert Johnson performed, doing such things as one-hand stands. Bears weigh up to 600 pounds.

The Anden's poodles, all nine of them, bunched up in colorful show clothes, jumped and walked as they were told.

The world famous Anden poodles, which have appeared on top while Mr. Anden held the ladders on one foot.

On a higher level, the flying Artones performed daring feats on the trapezes, which would have been higher if the arena roof had supports.

As it was, the swings had to be supported from the floor to a minimal 32 feet.

Twenty-seven-year-old Don Martinez is one of the few trapezists who can do three and a half turns in midair. If catcher Bob Yerkes misses, Don completes another dangerous turn and completes four and a half turns.

The Robert Cade International circus is a Dallas-based touring circus which plays 75 shows this year throughout Canada and the United States. It plays only for 5 Shrine-sponsored circuses.

Today's shows, the last in Victoria before the circus moves to Nanaimo, are at 4 and 8 p.m. at the Memorial Arena.

Mr. Castle said some 8,000 to 9,000 people attended Monday's two performances at the arena.

Preventive Changes Planned

Pool Mishap Due To Human Error

By A. H. MURPHY City Hall Reporter

Human error was named Monday as the basic cause of a near-tragedy at the city-owned Crystal Garden on May 13, when 34 people were overcome by deadly chlorine gas.

A 29-page report submitted to the city recreation committee from a team of investigating engineers, Frederick Gardiner and Allan Ker, stated:

"It is our opinion that the accident was not caused by the minor defect in the valve but was primarily one of human error through the mishandling of the chlorine equipment."

It said there is no reason to discontinue the use of liquid chlorine gas in the pool so long as "adequate safety precautions are taken."

The engineers recommended that:

• A new chlorinator room should be built on an outside wall of the building with access only to the outside, and adequate ventilation should be provided with exhaust fans vented to the outside.

• All personnel responsible for handling chlorination equipment should be given training in operation of the equipment and evacuation and emergency procedures. (City Manager Dennis Young said a course has already been set up.)

• Gas masks should be easily accessible and worn by operators whenever tanks are changed.

More Exits Urged

• Additional emergency exits should be provided from the Crystal Garden.

These recommendations would take months to carry out, the report noted, suggesting that in the meantime immediate action should be taken to install a self-closer for the door to the chlorination room and a three-way switch for fans inside and outside the room.

The use of masks should be mandatory at once and steps should be taken to set up a course of instructions, the report also stated.

The engineering study commissioned by the city stated that pool operator Robert Templeton "has been unable to explain satisfactorily how the auxiliary valve and yoke came to be removed with the gas cylinder valve open."

"Mr. Templeton's actions appear to have been that of abandoning the chlorinator room, leaving it with the door open and the exhaust fan off."

The report stated that in fairness to the operator it should be pointed out that the gas mask was lying on the floor of the chlorinator room beneath the fan, in a spot difficult to retrieve and make use of.

"However, it appears he should have at least turned on the fan and closed the door before leaving the area and giving the alarm," it continued.

It was the opinion of the investigators that Mr. Templeton closed the auxiliary gas valve which resulted in the pressure of the chlorinator dropping to zero but that he failed to close the main valve on the gas cylinder.

Yoke Released

Thinking that he had closed the latter valve, he released the yoke to change the cylinder, which allowed a substantial flow of chlorine gas to escape from the cylinder into the room, the report said.

"It was an unfortunate accident and we all feel badly about it," said Ald. Hugh Ramsay, chairman of the committee which received the document.

"It could have been more serious and human error seems to have been one cause. However, hindsight is easy and I don't think any one of us could guarantee that he would not have acted in the same way under similar circumstances."

Commenting on the report, City Manager Young said that consequences of the accident could have been minimized had different procedures been followed at the pool and, more particularly, by relocation of the chlorination room in an area removed from the pool.

The engineering report recommendations were aimed at preventing a recurrence of the mishap, which was the first of its kind in the 42 years of pool operation.

Anticipating a complete new facility for the Crystal Garden, possibly next year, members of the recreation committee went along with the manager's suggestion that one of the men who prepared the report, Mr. Gardiner, be engaged by the city to put some of his own recommendations into action.

He will also prepare a detailed review of all aspects of the Crystal and prepare an overall plan for its renovation.

New Graduates To Aid Police

The twelfth class of auxiliary police will graduate at 8 p.m. Thursday at Schofield Hall, 108 Niagara Street.

The 29 new auxiliary constables will be sworn in by Magistrate J. A. Byers and be presented with certificates by Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis.

Graduation marks the end of a 20-week course.

The class will now split up and be assigned to regular police departments for further training.

Robbery

Double Trial Begins

The trial of two Victoria men on charges of robbery with violence began Monday in the sitting hall at the Victoria Law Courts.

Mr. Justice W. R. McIntyre is presiding over the trial of Ronald May and Gerald Harvey, both of 46 South Turner, on charges arising from the robbery of Hebdens' Jewels, 1005 Blanshard, April 11.

Clerk Mrs. Queen Victoria Wilkins, 60, was knocked unconscious in the robbery and suffered a broken nose and head cuts.

The first day was occupied with selection of an all-male jury and the calling of police and eyewitnesses.

KEY WITNESS

Today's proceedings should include the appearance of Mrs. Wilkins, key witness in the case for crown prosecutor George MacMinn.

William Russell, proprietor of the Melody Mart at 226 Fort, testified he was having coffee in Johnny's Restaurant at about the time in question when he saw "two lads outside arguing," one of whom he identified as Harvey.

David R. Wilson is handling the defence for the two men, and Robert Simson is assisting in the prosecution.

Prospect Vote In Fall

Prospect Lake residents in late September will decide whether they will join Saanich's water system.

Municipal council Monday night decided to hold a formal vote on the question. Eligible to cast ballots will be those at the north end of the lake and residents of Fairholme and Westholme Roads.

Property-owners at the southern end of the lake won't be included in the poll because their homesites are so large the cost of extending water to their area would be prohibitive.

Whitbread Report

Council made the decision after Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, reported that in his opinion piped water would not increase pollution of the lake. While people would discharge greater volumes through septic tanks, the water was chlorinated and could even dilute existing lake pollution.

Two previous petitions taken among lakeside-dwellers on the water issue did not receive sufficient majorities.

On a related public health question, council decided to table a proposal to build a $245,000 sewage system that would serve 300 homes in the North Shelbourne area.

Six Into One

It will be put aside until council decides what will be done about consolidating the municipality's sewerage systems into a single enterprise.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said he'd be willing to call a special meeting of council to settle this issue — suddenly dropped before last December's municipal elections — and any other sewer business.

He told council, however, that in about a week the Regional Board will have the draft amendments to its letters patent what will launch it into a $75,000,000 sewer program for all of Greater Victoria and Southern Vancouver Island from Sidney to Sooke.

Basement Fire

A fire in the basement of the home of Godfrey Lomas, 3671 Dufferin, Sunday caused an estimated $2,000 damage. Cause of the fire is still under investigation.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

June 20, 1967

Both of the river papers come to us filled with abuse for their Victoria contemporaries. We wonder the Westminster people don't strike against the national fire their peppy journals keep up at their island contemporaries. Surely, there must be something else to write about up there. Since the run of coliculus has stopped and cut off a "fishful" source of items, why not treat your readers to an occasional chapter on "mosquitoes" or "Salmon"?

Pioneer Village, a home for elderly people, was formally opened under sunny skies on Friday afternoon at Ganges. A Lions project, the village is the first such housing to be built in the Gulf Islands.

At Ganges

Village Opens For Elderly

On the slope of the hill above Ganges Harbour on Salt Spring Island stands peaceful little Pioneer Village.

The Village is made up of attractive homes for elderly people of the Gulf Islands communities.

A Lions Club project, the village was started two years ago and was officially opened on Friday afternoon.

The Kuper Island School Band who are being helped by the Lions towards a trip to Expo were there to play for the opening ceremony.

Mr. Colin Cameron, MP, Mr. John Tisdale, MLA, Mayor Hugh Stephens and Mrs. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mathieu, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tang, Mr. Ted Chamberlin, Mr. Lionel O'Neill, went from Victoria and the principal speaker, George B. Wong came from Vancouver.

Lion W. F. Thorburn was master of ceremonies, and Mrs. Jack Tang did the honors of cutting the ribbon. Later at the Lions installation ceremonies in Fulford Hall, Mrs. Tang was presented with a bouquet of flowers.

The units were open for inspection following the opening. Designed for easy maintenance, each building houses two units. The eighteen single units have attractive bed-sitting rooms and fully equipped kitchens and bathrooms. The double have an extra bedroom and all units have small enclosed patios.

The buildings are attractive outside as well as in, the exterior walls of colored stucco need never be painted. Cedar shake roofs are over exposed rafters and galvanized chains at roof corners are designed to take rain quietly down into gravel catch basins.

Probably the most outstanding feature of the new village are the beautifully landscaped grounds. Trees, shrubs and flowers have been laid out to ensure future beauty.

Jack James, Gulf Islands agriculturist, was the one who waved the magic hand over the landscaping. With the help of Tony Walner of Victoria and five men, plus Lion volunteer labor in the evenings, the whole job was done in just five days.

The land for the Village was donated by retiring Lion president Don Crofton and Mrs. Crofton.

Mrs. Jack Tang, wife of the governor-elect of Lions District 19H, Victoria, smiles as she cuts the ribbon at the Pioneer Village official opening.

After the opening of Pioneer Village, Lions Club of Salt Spring Island were hosts at tea for special guests and those attending the affair. The tea party was on the grounds at Harbour House. ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: For the past 15 years I have been a busy executive. I do not agree with your stand that the person who telephones is obligated to give the secretary his name. I find it most annoying when I am asked "Who is calling?" I have made it a rule never to give my name.

Only one question is more irritating and I have learned how to get past it in a hurry. When a secretary asks, "What is it you wish to speak to Mr. Doe about?" I reply, "I'd like to know what his intentions are in regard to my wife."

I just thought you'd like to know how we less timid souls handle these self-important secretaries.—SACRAMENTO

Dear Sue: Thanks for the clue-in. The trouble with those cute answers is that you can only use them once. What do you do for an encore, Mister?

Dear Ann Landers: I have been thinking about that girl's suggestion — the one who said if a boy friend wants to get intimate, she should ask him to sign a paper stating that they went to bed on such and such a night, so there will be no question about paternity if something develops.

I think it's a good idea, Ann, but I have another idea which is equally good. I hope you will be fair and print it.

I am a young man who keeps getting invited to girl's apartments. I am not rich or handsome or a great talker, so don't get the idea I am bragging. My popularity is just proof that there are a lot of girls in Washington, D.C., who are hard up.

My plan is as follows: When a girl propositions a guy, he should ask HER to sign a paper saying it was her idea and that she will not hold him responsible if something develops. What do you think of it? — CAREFUL ALVIN

Dear Alvin: I think it's a fine idea. And since you seem to be always a reason. Maybe not a very good one, but it's a reason, nevertheless. The solution is to have such a friendly relationship with your sisters that they will not want to hit you.

Apparently your mom and dad are raising you to know that boys are not supposed to hit girls and they are to be complimented for it. If your little sisters get overly pesty and take advantage of your gentleness, however, your parents should step in and punish them.

A reception in the Canadian Scottish Mess followed the Saturday evening wedding in St. Matthias' Church of Miss Margot Adam and Mr. Gordon Watson Harris. The bride is the daughter of Brigadier John S. Adam and Mrs. Adam, and groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Harris. Shown above is the wedding party which included three flower girls, (left to right) Miss Flonna Davidson, Miss Dana Harris and Miss Heather Davidson, who looked quite angelic in their little organdy halos. Rest of the group are (left to right), ushers, Mr. Rocky Robertson, Mr. Thomas Annandale; best man, Mr. Charles H. Harris, the groom, the bride, the bride's sister, Mrs. K. Davidson, and Miss Shannon FitzPatrick and Miss Pamela Watson.

Lovely Garden Setting For Taylor Wedding

The attractive garden of Saswood Farm, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor, was the setting when Clara Taylor exchanged vows with Glenn Eric Knight, Sooke. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Knight of Chemalmus.

The patio was bright with hanging baskets of fuchsias, white foxgloves, blue delphiniums and pink peonies for the service conducted by H. G. Shepherd, director of Camp Imadene at Duncan. He was assisted by C. O. Bowen, Vancouver.

Given in marriage by her father, the fair-haired bride was lovely in an A-line full-length gown of white lace and crepe satin, styled with an empire waistline and a floor-length train of lace. She carried a white Bible, gift of the groom, topped with a white orchid and feathered flamingo carnations. For jewelry, she wore the groom's gift of a silver horse-shoe pendant, set with pearls and diamonds.

The bride had made and designed her own gown and those of her attendants.

Mrs. P. E. Anderson was matron of honor for her sister, Bridesmatron was the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Taylor, and bridesmaids were Miss Annabelle Turek and Miss Charlene Knight, the groom's sister. Junior bridesmaids were the brides Sharna Oliver, Sherry Woodford and Barbis Dawes, Duncan.

The senior attendants wore empire-line gowns of white arnel eyelet, posed over flamingo taffeta and enhanced with back panels of flamingo georgette. The junior attendants' dresses were of white lace with flamingo overtones, complete with white georgette panels.

In their hair, they wore flamingo and green tulle veils, perched with feathered flamingo carnations and green velvet leaves to match the trim on their gowns. All carried baskets of maidenhair fern, flamingo and white carnations.

Roy Knight, Chemalmus, was best man for his brother and ushering the 400 guests were the bride's brother, Joseph Taylor; Terry Root, P. E. Anderson and Ward Bishop.

Pianist for the ceremony was Miss Ruth Richardson. While the couple signed the register, a musical program was presented by violinist Miss Ruth Brannell and singers Miss Beverly Serbiowski and Miss Lydia Van Ek.

Alex Hall, Victoria, proposed the toast to the bride during a buffet supper served in the garden. The tables were centred with bowls of roses and the meal was served by the bride's Sunday school students. Pink sweetpeas topped the four-tier wedding cake which had been decorated by Mrs. Stan Oliver.

For her going-away ensemble, the bride chose a pink floral surah sheath dress, a toning sleeveless coat of linen and pink floral hat.

Carries Red Roses

A wedding of interest to many Victorians took place in Prince George recently when Joan Elizabeth Dawson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. McDonald of Yorkshire, England, became the bride of Thomas William McGaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McGaw, 65 Davida Street.

Pastor Deetrich officiated at the ceremony in the Evangelical Free Church, which was decorated with standard baskets of pink and white gladioli, and red and pink roses for the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by Edward Norberg.

She wore a floor-length gown in pale rose, featuring a sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice. Added interest was a bow at the waist at the back of the gown. Sleeves were three-quarter length. Her chapel-length veil misted from a headpiece started with crystals and pearls, and she carried a crescent bouquet of red roses, lily of the valley and carnations.

The bride's attendants chose identical gowns in white nylon eyelet, featuring three-quarter-length sleeves. Satin bows highlighted the fitted bodices of the gowns. Their headpieces were formed of pink fabric flowers and they carried crescent bouquets of pink rosebuds.

Matron of honor was Mrs. F. Zawada, and bridesmatron was Mrs. M. Moffat, the bride's sister.

Lorne Torgenson was best man.

Arrangements of spring flowers in shades of pink, white and blue decorated Simon Fraser ballroom for the reception. A three-tier wedding cake, gift of the groom's mother, centred the head table. Out-of-town guests included the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McGaw, who travelled from Victoria for the wedding. Also from Victoria were Mr. and Mrs. C. P. McGaw, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. McGaw, Mrs. M. Johnson, and R. Rose, Mrs. Marjorie Moffat attended from Lytton, and Wayne Moffat, Nelson.

Gem Laden Gowns

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP) — If you're rich, you may wear your wealth this fall instead of banking it.

At Count Sarni's collection which opened Monday elegant mannequins swept through his crowded showroom with their costumes so laden with gold or silver or so encrusted with gems that they could probably stand by themselves.

Some of the stones were pricey, though you would have thought they were real by the dazzle — or by reading these garments' four-figure price tags. The show began unostentatiously with high-waisted woools and pale plaid suit costumes with pleated skirts.

MATCH HEADS
However, by the time the basic blacks had arrived the first glitz of gold and silver was there in the skull caps the mannequins wore. Not hats, they were wigs imitating the short, curly-hair worn by the Greeks long ago.

Quilted velvets with dog collar gems and broadtail dresses and suits with sable and mink trims were opulence heavy enough to keep his clients warm in their drafty castles.

If the ladies were not fowl wrapped in a metal brocade, they were trilled with bands of dripping silver.

Motor Trend Magazine called Ambassador "one of the plushest, most comfortable town or highway cars we've ever driven".

Motor Trend is one of the most authoritative auto magazines in North America. Their February edition included a comprehensive road test of an Ambassador DFL. Here are some of their comments:

"The Ambassador DFL is one of the plushest, most comfortable town or highway cars we've ever driven".

That's what it was designed to be. The seats are coil spring sprung, like fine furniture; there's plenty of head, leg and shoulder room for all passengers; and the ride and performance are just what you expect from a big car—very smooth. Motor Trend's test car was equipped with American Motors new 343 cu. in. V8—the newest and most efficient production engine available—and they clocked 0-60 mph in 9.9 seconds and 30 to 70 mph in 5.2 seconds.

"A number of built-ins make the Rebel and Ambassador safe and economical cars. The ceramic-coated exhaust system is still exclusive. Then there are the impact-absorbing steering column, the 5 year/50,000 mile warranty on major drive train items, unusually spacious and comfortable passenger compartments plus well planned overall design. It all adds up to cars that are easy to look at that are getting to be fun to drive, with the clincher being a well-earned reputation for quality construction."

With praise like that, it's no wonder that people think that Ambassador belongs up there in the Olds, Buick and Chrysler class. In terms of quality it does, but in terms of price, Ambassador is priced with Ford, Chev and Plymouth, model for model.

Ex-Pupil Curtis Boils Over School Litter

Reeve Curtis of Saanich said Monday night school authorities are responsible for the worst litter problems in the municipality. He joined four residents of Kamloops Avenue who came to council to blast the students of Mount View high school for the proliferation of waste paper in that area.

Reeve Curtis also said he wrote to school board three weeks ago about another litter problem and "I haven't even had the courtesy of a reply."

METERS SUGGESTED

During the discussion of waste, noise and cars near high schools, Edward MacFayden, 170 Kamloops, said the municipality should install parking meters near schools or charge $5 or $6 a month for the use of parking lots.

"If the students have the money to run around in a car, they should have the money to park the darned things," said Mr. MacFayden.

A. E. Pettford, 121 Kamloops, said Mount View students dis-

No Stones Needed In Saanich

"Now it is possible to walk or ride a bicycle in Saanich without carrying a pocketful of stones."

The complaint came to Saanich council Monday from C. W. Morehes, 4584 Bonnie View Place, who praised the municipality for curbing stray dogs.

However, he wasn't completely satisfied. He suggested something be done to clean up the mess from dogs on vacant lots.

"I have garbage on my street on my rooftop," said Mr. Pettford, who suggested Saanich police enforce the litter bylaw.

However, the reeve said Saanich police have more important things to do than chase litterbugs.

"Doggone it," snarled Reeve Curtis, "when I went to school they had us out picking up garbage for detentions. This school principal hasn't done all he can. He should get some sticks with nails on the ends."

CONCENTRATIONS

"If the area around the school is untidy, it's the school's responsibility."

"The greatest concentrations of litter in this municipality are around schools," he added.

Coun. William Noel said the problems also existed near Mount Douglas high school and Coun. Alan Newberry, an elementary school principal in Sooke district, said the litter was "100 per cent a responsibility of schools."

Dragged To Death

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI)—A hit-run driver who plowed into a group of four boys knocked three over a fence and dragged the fourth 3½ miles, killing him. The dead boy, 16, was caught under the vehicle and police followed a trail of blood until finding him still there. The driver escaped.

British Crown Jewels Sneaked Underground

LONDON (AP)—Shrouded by secrecy and surrounded by armed police, Britain's crown jewels were taken to a new home in the Tower of London during the weekend.

The jewel-studded crowns, swords, sceptres, staffs, rods and other precious regalia were moved in such secrecy that the yeomen of the guard—who traditionally watch over the relics of British monarchic history—knew nothing of the move until they reported for duty Sunday morning.

Saturday night the jewels were taken from the Wakefield Tower to an underground explosives-proof vault beneath the Guards Regiment parade ground in the tower courtyard. The yard is surrounded by the tower's giant walls.

Police, linked by radio squad cars, ringed the 11th-century building at the side of the River Thames and kept watch on approach roads. The move took three hours.

Border Officers Slain

TEMECULA, Calif. (LAT)—Two missing U.S. border patrol inspectors were found shot to death Monday in a mountain cabin.

The bodies of Theodore Newton, 26, and George Azrak, 22, were discovered facing each other in a sitting position on the floor of the abandoned shack. Each was found with his arms encircled around a potbellied stove, the wrists bound together with the patrolmen's handcuffs.

Both had been shot in the back of the head. Their .44-calibre Magnum revolvers were missing, as were the extra ammunition clips.

Their green and white government sedan was about 50 feet from the cabin. The car had been covered with brush in an effort to conceal it.

The officers had been the object of an intensive search after they failed to return to their base in Temecula when their shift ended at 8 a.m. Saturday.

BIG SEARCH

Earlier that morning, Newton and Azrak had set up a routine roadblock on State Highway 78, in the Northern San Diego country community of Oak Grove, to look for persons entering the country illegally or carrying narcotics.

The FBI had been directing more than 300 searchers for the missing federal officers.

The FBI gave no indication as to whether it had any suspects in mind in the slaying.

Embassy, Consulate

Bombings Spur Reward Offer

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to a conviction in the Jan. 29 bombings of the Yugoslav Embassy in Ottawa and the Yugoslav Consulate in Toronto.

An RCMP announcement said the anonymity of informants would be protected "insofar as it is possible."

FOUR IN U.S.

The two blasts coincided with bombings at the Yugoslav Embassy in Washington and consulates in New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

At the time, Branko Milijanovic, the country's charge d'affaires here, suggested the bombings were the work of a Yugoslav terrorist-fascist organization.

The RCMP announcement said the reward would be divided if more than one person helps police in making an arrest and conviction.

Garbagemen Human Torches

OTTAWA (CP)—Two garbage collectors were turned into human torches Monday by a blast in the back of their truck at the forestry department's research laboratories.

George Juratovac, 35, and Paul Leclair, 59, were taken to hospital with extensive burns. They were loading garbage at the time.

Laboratory officials, unable to explain the cause, said highly inflammable chemicals are thrown into special dumps.

Not Blight-Babies!

By M. V. CHESNUT

I have been getting quite a rash of letters recently from women who have become very concerned over the health of their houseplant ferns. In every one of the cases reported to me, the fern has broken out in a rash of rust-colored spots on the back of the leaves, and in many cases the plants look tired and unthrifty.

This is not, as most of my readers believe, an epidemic of blight or disease. It is a perfectly natural occurrence that happens to every grower-up fern sooner or later — she is having babies!

Ferns don't have flowers, and therefore cannot bloom and set seed like other plants. These are incredibly ancient plants, going back to the days of the giant dinosaurs, and they reproduce themselves in a much more primitive manner — by shedding dust-like fungi.

The spots on the undersides of the leaves are simply spore cases, and you can tell them from bugs or disease spots by the fact that they are arranged in regular and rather beautiful patterns. Shake a spotted leaf over a sheet of white paper and you will see the dust-like spores from which new ferns are grown.

Blobs and spots on the stems of a fern are something else again — usually scale insects, sticky creatures which look like flakes or blobs of varnish. These are sap-sucking pests that can kill your fern and these should be eradicated promptly. No treatment is necessary for the patterned spore cases on the backs of the leaflets, though; just treat your fern in the manner to which she is accustomed, and eventually she will grow out of this maternal phase.

The thing that puzzles me, though, is why so many potted ferns should all get themselves into this "interesting condition" at the same time, as evidenced by the number of letters coming to my desk. Some of these ferns have been in the family for many years and have never before behaved in such an indelicate manner.

The history of horticulture is full of such strange happenings. There is, for instance, the case of the Musk plant, Mimulus moschatus, which lost its characteristic scent in 1914. This was a much beloved houseplant, grown all over the world, blooming freely in the spring and especially treasured for its pleasing musky fragrance.

Fifty-three years ago, every musk plant in the world suddenly lost its fragrance and became scentless. Greenhouse growers of houseplants were thrown into a panic, for they were stocked up heavily on this best-selling plant and couldn't sell them, for nobody would buy a Musk without fragrance.

At first it was thought that the cultivated houseplant Musk had degenerated because of too much inbreeding, and professional plant hunters were sent out to all the wild parts of the world to collect and bring back the more vigorous wild plants, but it was found that these too had lost their fragrance. Nowhere on the face of the earth could a scented Musk be found. Plenty of half-baked theories have been advanced to account for this phenomenon, but none of them makes much sense, and to this day there is no satisfactory explanation.

A similar mystery surrounds a certain type of bamboo, at one time very popular as a graceful ornamental plant in English and Continental gardens. The bamboo is a shy bloomer, flowering only at long and irregular intervals, but in one single year, shortly after the turn of the century, every single specimen of this particular variety bloomed and died.

ART BUCHWALD Interviews Seminole Chief

Indians Get Florida Back

WASHINGTON — There has been so much concentration on the Middle East situation in the past few weeks, that some people may not have noticed that the United States has lost a State.

The Seminole Indians of Florida just got a court ruling that they own 90 per cent of Florida.

According to a treaty that the white man signed in 1823 and had no intention of keeping, the Seminoles were supposed to be paid $40,000,000 for their lands. The money was never forthcoming and so the Seminoles sued and the U.S. Court of Claims ruled that since the United States defaulted on the payment, the Seminoles could easily claim 90 per cent of the State.

If the Seminoles exercise their rights, we can expect to see many changes in Florida in the next few years. A chief spokesman (or is it a spokesman chief?) told me in an interview: "There is great unhappiness amongst my peoples. Even though Florida is a mess of highways, housing developments and resorts, we will once again make it a happy Indian hunting ground."

One of the first things that the chief said the Seminoles intended to do was to change the policy at the Hialeah race track. In past years, before the races, Seminole Indians paraded in costume in the infield amongst the storks, to give Hialeah a colorful local flavor.

The Chief said "We intend to change all this. In the future, the white men will parade before the races, and the Indians will applaud them from the stands."

The Seminole spokesman said, "We have no intention of letting the white man's culture die in Florida, and so we have set aside the Fontainebleau, Eden Roc and the Americana hotels as white man reservations. They should be wonderful tourist attractions for the Seminoles."

"The white man will be encouraged to dress in costume, make white man's souvenirs that can be sold to the Indians and keep alive the primitive Caucasian dances that the Seminole children enjoy so much. We believe that if the white men can make their reservations attractive enough, they will not only attract Seminole tourists, but other Indians from every state in the union."

I asked the Chief if this meant that Seminoles would not make any effort to teach the white man other skills than those they could learn on a reservation.

"The white man is basically lazy," the chief said, "and there isn't much you can teach him except for handicrafts."

"Do you intend to still attract white people from other States in wintertime?"

"Yes we do, but there will be a difference. For years now the white men in Florida have been scalping their fellow white men in the wintertime, particularly when it came to the Seminoles. From now on the Seminoles will be scalping the white man. The outsiders won't mind it as much if it's done by Indians."

"What about the college kids who come down for Easter vacation?"

"We shall let them come but we shall forbid the sale of fireworks. Everyone knows the white man can't hold his fireworks, particularly the college student."

I asked the Chief if he felt the white man should be compensated for any lands he will lose to the Seminoles because of the court ruling.

"Oh," he said, "we'd certainly be delighted to sign a treaty with the white man and repay him for the lands. We've even worked out a formula. We'll pay $10 down and $10 a month until all the land we took in Florida is paid off."

"That's very generous," I said, "and the white people in Florida would be fools not to accept your generous offer."

Those Announcers! SYDNEY HARRIS

Why don't the radio and television announcers learn that there is no "ooop" in "recuperate"; there is no "gnair" in "irreparable"; and there is no "hero" in "herosm".

There is no "epite" in "respite"; there is no "you" in "tremolo".

There is a "g" sound in "recognize," "strength," "length," and many other words.

There is no "hose" in "hosiery"; there is no "on" in "envoy"; and there is no "ham" in "Bethlehem".

There is no "home" in "homage"; there is no "comb" in "comely"; and there is no "long" in "longevity".

There are no such words as "disasterous," "incidently," "grevious," "interduction," or "momento".

The adjective "frequent" is pronounced with the stress on the first syllable; but the verb, "frequent," must be pronounced with the stress of the second syllable, as it almost never is.

The French word, "forte" has only one syllable, not two, and nothing sounds more ignorant and affected than using a foreign word and mispronouncing it, as: "Arranging flowers happens to be my forte".

Chopin's Minute Waltz has nothing to do with a minute of time, but is "minute" the way a small steak is minute; it is not to be played in 60 seconds, nor pronounced as if it were.

There is no "wine" in "genuine"; there is no "quip" in "equippage"; and there is no "phony" in "euphony".

There are three syllables, not two, in "champion" (which on the lips of all athletes and most sports announcers, r h y m e s with "damn bean"); there are only three syllables, not four, in "athletic" (which on the lips of most athletes becomes "athletic"); there are only four syllables, not five, in "positively"; and there are three syllables, not two, in "probably".

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Caine Canny Cockney

LONDON (NANA) — Michael Caine has two weeks between Deadfall and The Magnus. He will use the fortnight in the nicest way possible by flying to Arizona where Camilla Sperry is making a picture. So the romance is still on with Michael, now rited the most popular movie actor in the world, and Camilla, the world's prettiest Swede. Caine is a canny Cockney. When he agreed to play Harry Palmer in The Express File, he stipulated that for every Palmer picture, he must do two others of an entirely different nature. This is how you get to be a big star. I'm told Michael's picture price is somewhere west of $500,000 and east of $750,000. And still travelling.

Columbia bought the thriller, The Lady in the Car, by Sebastian Jarrinet and is hoping to interest Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton in co-starring.

Confirming my story that Hammer Productions here is signing Olga Schabereva for The Return of She, now titled The Vengeance of She, the beautiful blonde Czech will have a change of name to Anna Barova. The last She, with Ursula Andress, made a fortune. Olga, or Anna, has the same facial bone structure and you can't do better than that.

Vicac Edwards, expected in Italy to finish The Devil's Brigade with William Holden, could have used a Ben Casey of his own when he was tossed in a judo fall. All shook up, but no bones broken.

Julie Andrews is in the south of France as guest of honor for a press party 20th Century-Fox is giving, the star of Star. One week on the Riviera, then the picture comes to London, but Julie will return to Hollywood. There are no scenes for her here, so she can take it easy for a bit in her beautiful California home.

Whoever buys the film rights to Hallelujah Baby, will have to include Leslie Uggams in the deal. I hope it's her contract. In any case, this is one role in a stage hit they can't give to Julie Andrews or Barbra Streisand. By the way, I'm wondering what Nasser will have to say when Egyptian Omar Sharif plays the Jewish co-star with Barbra in her Funny Girl film. Will Omar be banned or the picture or both?

The remark of the week is from Shirley Maclaine, who is in England for The Bliss of Mrs. Blossom. "If I had played Molly Bloom in Ulysses, I'd have acted it (the soliloquy on sex), instead of talking about it." I'd like to see her get that past the censors.

Hayley Mills glowing over The Family Way. "It's wonderful when the critics and the public both like it. And wait until you see my father (John Mills) in the picture. He's marvellous. He's rather like a grown-up William Mossop." That's the part Hayley's dad played in the Hobson's Choice movie with the late Charles Laughton.

If you look fast, you will see Mrs. Mickey Rooney Number Four in A Guide for the Married Man. . . One of the characters in Roman Polanski's Fearless Vampire picture, is a vampire on ice skates. Roman was a junior ice-skating champ in his native Poand.

Richard Harris is expected soon in London, but no one seems to know whether it will be a homecoming to wife Elizabeth and their children, or a final decision about a divorce. Richard is hoping for the homecoming. He addresses his family, but he's a wild, albeit, lovable Irishman. And a wild, albeit, lovable Irishman, is not always easy to live with.

King Fisherman

Good-Sized Coho Found Up-Island

Today's King Fisherman entries show a good run of coho along the Bates Beach to Campbell River shores and they are reaching a good size.

Fishing from Painter's Lodge J. M. Smith of Detroit picked up four beauties, six pounds up to 7.4 pounds, on a Mac's Squid plug.

Off Campbell River the outer kelp beltway has been one of the hot spots and Henry Smith spoons and Flashtails have been the two most productive lures.

DERBY WINNER

In the Victoria Fish and Game Club Centennial Derby in Saanich Inlet Sunday Joe Cooco was winner of the Alex Oniechuck trophy and a wire line salmon outfit for his 13.5-pound spring (chinook) salmon, heaviest of the 36 salmon weighed in by 75 ticket holders.

Bob Kirk won the Pearsall-Smith coho trophy and a coho fishing rod for a 3.13-pounder, only coho of the derby.

The Howard English trophy for junior angler was won by Ricky Eppler with a 3.14-pounder.

Pensioners Plan New Rest Home

Some pensioners intend to build a rest home in the area, as soon as they have sufficient funds.

At a recent meeting it was decided that the branch project for the Sooke Old Age Pensioners Association should be the establishment of a rest home.

To augment funds a memorial fund has been started and members are also asking for financial and physical help, so that a site can be bought and building started.

During the winter the association started a hot meal program, to give old people a meal and social afternoon twice a week.

An average of 25 people have attended meetings since then, and the program will continue until the end of June, when it will be suspended until September.

On Friday and Saturday an art exhibition and piano recital will be held in the community hall, with the association serving tea.

Art students of Mrs. James Earnest, and Mrs. C. E. Cyr's piano students will be featured.

Heat Wave Sizzles On

Victoria's heat wave, already three days old and with temperatures six degrees above normal, could become a long one.

Although some clouds are possible today, Allan McQuarrie, officer in charge at the Gonzales Point weather station, said Monday that "I see no great change in sight."

He said mean temperatures of 62 degrees Saturday and 63 Sunday were six degrees above normal, while Sunday's high of 74 at Gonzales matched the June 1 reading as the hottest this year.

Monday's high was 73, and Mr. McQuarrie said cool sea breezes in the past 48 hours are the only thing that have kept the official Gonzales temperature below the 80-plus weather encountered in inland areas.

The longest heat wave last year was three days and didn't come until mid-August.

Mr. McQuarrie said he thinks "the heat is being felt more due to the lack of precipitation."

DROUGHT DUE

This area has had no measurable precipitation compared to the normal 4.4-inch in the first 18 days of June. However, the drought was about due, since Victorians have absorbed 15.73 inches of rain this year, compared to the normal 12.71.

Elsewhere in B.C.:
Weathermen and foresters said the huge Vancouver forest district is in a state of "severe drought" with an extreme fire danger. Some higher humidity is due today or Wednesday.

The provincial water branch, in its final bulletin on B.C. runoff conditions, said ideal melt conditions have eliminated the flood potential on most rivers despite a record snowpack.

However, the branch said a flood threat still exists on the Columbia River and, as if in confirmation, the heat wave sent the Columbia above the flood alert level in Trail, covering one street with two feet of water.

NATO Eyes Canadian Squadron

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may contribute a squadron of ships to a proposed "inshore naval force" for NATO, Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons Monday.

He added his department has not finished its investigation of the proposal.

Former defence minister Douglas Harkness asked when the force was approved in principle by NATO. He referred to a statement by Admiral Thomas Moorer, new chief of U.S. naval operations, that NATO's naval force will be established soon.

B.C. Log Drive Buffets Resort Owner

FRANCOIS LAKE (CP) — Resort owner Douglas Kelly frustrated boommen as they drove their logs down the Stella River Monday by anchoring a boat in the middle of the river, and putting out his fishing line.

But he failed to stop the drive. A crowd of more than 70 persons watched as Mr. Kelly on several occasions was swept downstream by heavy logs pounding his 10-foot aluminum boat.

"WELL-CONTROLLED" he yelled to the spectators as he fought the current and logs. "Just look at them."

The controversial drive in this remote area of central British Columbia started on schedule Monday and reports the provincial government would move to halt any interference from Mr. Kelly, spokesman for disident resort owners, or any others.

The drive caused a bitter controversy last year between the federal and provincial governments on jurisdiction over movement of logs down the river. The resort owners claim the log drive ruins salmon spawning grounds on the Stella.

B.C. Deputy Forestry Minister F. S. McKinnon, who had indicated the government was considering issuing an injunction to stop any interference with the log drive, said he would not move to stop Mr. Kelly or any other lodge operator who might anchor in the river.

"We are just concerned about the safety of the men," he said. "It's a matter for the police."
RCMP Staff Sergeant D. G. Williams of Prince George, one of six mounted at the scene, said there was nothing he could do either.
"The man is endangering his own life, using his own judgment," he said.

Kosygin, Eban Highlight UN Day

Big Two Summit Out

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Soviet Premier Kosygin killed hopes Monday night for a Big Two summit meeting with U.S. President Johnson, while he is attending the emergency UN General Assembly session on the Middle East crisis.

U.S. sources said Kosygin sent word to the White House he is unable to accept Johnson's invitation to a visit, since he came to the U.S. to attend the session and not to make a visit to any American officials.

Word of the Soviet decision deepened the gloom caused by the session's first full day, in which Kosygin called on the assembly to condemn Israel as an aggressor and Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban came back with a ringing denunciation of Russia.

COURTESY

U.S. ambassador Arthur Goldberg speaks first today. He was due to start Monday but the U.S. gave Kosygin the honor as an act of courtesy.

As expected, Kosygin presented a Soviet draft resolution to the 122-country assembly that called for condemnation of Israel's "aggressive actions" and for the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied Arab territories.

The draft resolution outlined an even tougher position than the Soviet Union had taken in the recent Security Council debate on the Middle East, which was broken off last Wednesday after Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko had failed to persuade the council to condemn Israel and had declared the council to be deadlocked.

RESTITUTION

It demands that Israel should restate in full, and within the shortest possible period of time, all the damage inflicted by its aggression upon the United Arab Republic, Syria and Jordan, and their nationals, and should return to them all seized property and other material assets.

Kosygin also elicited sharp replies from the U.S. and Britain over statements he made in the speech preliminary to presenting his draft resolution.

He spoke one hour after U.S. President Johnson made a major foreign policy speech in Washington. Johnson gave five principles for peace including recognition of "right of national life," justice for refugees, limits to the arms race and the right of all nations to use the critical Gulf of Aqaba.

NOT SIMPLE

Johnson said there is no simple, simple solution to the Middle East crisis. There must be troop withdrawals, but he linked this with his five principles.

Johnson did not name Israel in his troop reference. Nor did he name Egypt when he said the closing of the Gulf of Aqaba was a major cause of the crisis. Egypt did close the gulf to Israel-bound shipping.

Three Rival Plans

Key details of the three main blueprints for Mideast peace, in the order of their publication Monday:

PRESIDENT JOHNSON — Recognition of the right to national life, justice for refugees, innocent maritime passage, limits on the wasteful arms race, political independence and territorial integrity for all.

PREMIER KOSYGIN — Condemnation of Israel as an aggressor, unconditional Israeli withdrawal behind 1949 armistice lines, full Israeli payment for Arab war damage, Security Council action to eliminate all consequences of Israeli aggression.

FOREIGN MINISTER EBAN — Peaceful co-existence between Israel and the Arab states, removal of conflicting big-power interests from the Mideast, Arab recognition of and direct contact with Israel.

U.S. sources said Kosygin sent word to the White House he is unable to accept Johnson's invitation to a visit, since he came to the U.S. to attend the session and not to make a visit to any American officials.

B.C. Fishing Dispute

UNION FINED, TRIO JAILED

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three executives of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union were sentenced Monday to jail for one year, and the union was fined $25,000 for criminal contempt of the B.C. Supreme Court.

The union was given no extended time for payment of the fine.

Mr. Justice T. A. Dohm chastised the union for its "planned flaunting of the court's authority." He said he could not imagine a case of more gross contempt.

As the sentences were handed down to union President H. Steve Stavens, secretary Homer Stevens and business agent

Jack Nichol, several loud cries were heard in the courtroom. Eyes of the men's wives filled with tears.

The judge initiated the action following actions and press releases relating to a supreme court injunction issued in a union jurisdictional dispute in Prince Rupert.

Mr. Justice Dohm refused to accept submissions on behalf of the union and offers that the case should be dismissed for insufficient evidence.

'NOT SERIOUS'

He also rejected a submission the case was not serious enough to be dealt with by the procedure being used — a summary hearing before a judge.

Union lawyer John Stanton said that in previous cases judges have held this procedure should be used rarely and only when no other remedies are available.

In this case, Mr. Stanton argued, the attorney-general should have acted under a section of the Criminal Code or the case could have been left to civil suits for damages.

The injunction issued by Judge Kirkie Smith ordered the union, through business agent Nichol, to send a telegram giving permission for union shore workers to unload and process fish from five trawlers in Prince Rupert. The union was alleged to have

John Maltwood

Museum Donor Dies at 100

The donor of the University of Victoria's Maltwood Art Museum died Sunday in his 101st year.

Funeral services for centenarian John Maltwood, formerly of the Tatch in Royal Oak, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in Christ Church Cathedral, with Archbishop Harold Sexton and Dean Brian Whitlow officiating.

Mr. Maltwood, who celebrated his 100th birthday last summer, turned over the thatched-roof Spanish landmark and its art treasures to the university in November, 1964.

Much of the Maltwood collection is Chinese, some dating back to Han and Wei dynasties of 2,000 years ago, and was owned by his former wife Katherine who willed the collection to the university.

He was born in London, England, and was managing director of Oxo Ltd. of London until he retired in the 1920s. After retiring he and his wife travelled extensively in Europe and North Africa in search of architecture and art, and finally settled in Victoria in 1938.

He is survived by his wife Margaret in Victoria and niece and nephews in Jersey, Channel Islands.

Hayward's funeral chapel is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Direct Talks Israeli Plan

From UPI, AP, Reuters

While positions on the Arab-Israeli conflict hardened on both sides at the UN Monday, the same thing happened in the Middle East itself.

The Israeli cabinet ended a two-day policy meeting by indicating it will insist on direct and separate peace talks with Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

In Egypt, President Nasser tightened his control by making himself premier and secretary-general of the only political party, thereby taking direct command of both the government and the party.

NEW POSTS

He made Zakaria Mohieuddin deputy premier and put former premier Mohammed Sikky Suleiman in charge of industry and power.

'OUT-IF'

Ben-Gurion, stressing he was speaking only for himself, said Israeli forces should withdraw from Sinai if Egypt will agree to sign a peace treaty guaranteeing Israeli ships free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal. Israel would also retain control of the Gaza Strip.

Ben-Gurion said Israeli troops should agree to withdraw from occupied Syria if Syria will

Paris Parley Fails to Agree

PARIS (AP) — French President de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Wilson failed to agree Monday on how to get Big Four or Israel-Arab talks going.

They also spent nearly two hours, during day-long meetings, in inconclusive discussion of Britain's bid for Common Market membership. And their exchange touched as well on China's first H-bomb test and the Vietnam war—but no statements were made.

Both men favored a Big Four approach toward Mideast peacemaking, but de Gaulle is less keen than Wilson for negotiations within the UN framework.

They opposed any early Big Four summit conference but did feel the Big Four must underwrite any Arab-Israeli settlement. Mideast arms supplies should be limited, all waterways should be free to all and war gains in territory must be the subject of talks.

Yellow Point

Fast Work Quells Fire

NANAIMO — A fire which could have endangered all of Yellow Point during Monday's heatwave was quenched in two hours. The fire at Boat Harbor, just off Greenway Road nine miles south of Nanaimo, was reported at 2:25 p.m. B.C. Forest Service crews and equipment were called, including a Canso water bomber from Victoria. The Canso arrived at the fire by 3:35 p.m. After 11 water drops, and frantic work by a 12-man ground crew, the two-acre fire was considered under control by 4:30 p.m. Bill Moore, assistant forest ranger, said that all that remained to be done by 5 p.m. was to extinguish small pockets that flickered in old stumps and under deadfalls. He said a guard would be posted overnight, to insure the fire would not restart. Temperatures in the area had been reported as high as 115 degrees. Officials of the forest service said the dry conditions coupled with careless campers were responsible for eight fires over the weekend in the Vancouver Forest District. It was not known how the Boat Harbor fire began.

Bombers Control Bad Fire

Water bombers successfully contained a fierce fire Monday night on the outskirts of Tahsis which began in late afternoon and by early evening, fanned by southerly winds, had burned out of control. At one stage, said an RCMP spokesman, a Martin Mars water bomber from Sprout Lake was making no headway on the fire, which started about 4 p.m. on the eastern rise of Tahsis Inlet. Fanned by a southerly breeze, it burnt out of control down the hill, across the valley and up the other side. The wind died about 7 p.m., giving firefighters a chance, he said. From the RCMP office, on the outskirts of the town, he reported seeing firefighters and trucks working feverishly to halt the blaze, at the 600-foot level, and about two miles from the town. "They're scurrying around like ants from here," he said. The water bomber was making regular passes across the fire every 15 minutes, landing in the inlet to refill. Throughout the afternoon it dropped several hundred tons of water on the blaze, which was burning at one stage on a front about a mile wide. The fire started near the logging camp of Green's Logging, but the spokesman said he did not think the fire started as a result of one of the several companies in the area burning slash. "It was probably an accident as the weather is really hot up here," he said. Nearby logging companies are starting to close operations now for the fire season, he said. The water bomber started to contain the fire about 5 p.m. when the front had been broken. The fire was split off into several areas of fallen timber and gradually extinguished. "Luckily, it didn't reach the standing stuff," he said.

Stranded Men Rescued From North Coast Beach

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Two men travelling from the Queen Charlotte Islands to Campbell River were rescued by a Department of Transport helicopter from Prince Rupert Monday, after they were found stranded on a beach one mile north of Ormond Point on Baker Inlet. Both men swam to shore a mile away. They were spotted early Monday by crew members of the B.C. ferry Queen of Prince Rupert. The men fired three shots to indicate their trouble and waved from the beach. The ferry radioed Prince Rupert where a helicopter was dispatched. Both men were taken to Prince Rupert General Hospital. Martin suffered a severe head gash and was reported in satisfactory condition. Cowpar was examined and released. The men, identified as Charles Cowpar, 25, of Queen Charlotte City and Bud Martin, 25, of Campbell River, left Saturday in a 15-foot boat powered by an outboard motor. They ran into trouble Sunday when the boat swamped.

Woods Closing

LAKE COWICHAN — Some 600 loggers were laid off Monday, and more are expected to be pulled out of the woods, as temperatures continued to soar and humidity continues to decrease. About 200 men at Cayuse camp of B.C. Forest Products Limited were told not to report for work. Personnel supervisor A. G. Lindo, said about 30 men are still employed on the boom, and between 35 and 40 may be recalled this week to carry out necessary work in the Nisinat area where fire rating conditions are not so hazardous. He said most loggers will not be working until there is a change in the weather. "As we are taking all precautions to eliminate the possibility of fire." In the Nisinat area, about 143 loggers employed by Crown Zellerbach were sent home at noon, after starting work on regular shift. An official of the company said the men will work early shift today for three hours only. He said the temperature in the woods was 81 degrees at 10 a.m. Monday. Fog from the west coast, which usually shrouds the Nisinat area, even in warm weather, has been non-existent the last few mornings. About 150 loggers are off work at Gordon River Camp of Western Industries and are not expected to go back until there is an improvement in the weather. An official said any increase of moisture in the area could improve fire hazard conditions enough to permit work in the forests. Hillcrest Lumber Company laid off about 85 men after several days of early shift work, and they are not expected to return to work until it rains. Some 50 men employed by MacMillan, Bloedel's Shawinigan division did not report for work Monday but will attempt to continue working on early shift, starting today.

Oil Slick Found

VANCOUVER (CP) — Debris and an oil slick from the 35-foot fishboat Spray I were found off the north coast of B.C. Sunday, about 35 miles south of Prince Rupert, a search and rescue official said Monday. The spokesman said the only person aboard was believed to be owner-operator Peter Jackson of Bella Bella, 300 miles northwest of Vancouver. NANAIMO BOAT The debris and oil slick was found by the federal fisheries vessel Laurier. An RCMP vessel from Nanaimo and the Coast Guard cutter Racer were dispatched to join the Laurier in a search for the missing fishboat.

Regions Dangerously Dry

Most regions of Vancouver Island have been described by officials as tinder dry and under extreme fire danger warnings. On Saturday, a Canso water bomber, operated by Flying Firemen Ltd., dropped eight 1,000-gallon loads on a four-acre bush fire at the north end of Goldstream provincial park in Langford. Cause of the fire is undetermined. No rain has fallen in Victoria this month and general warnings have placed the southern region also on alert. In the Alberni, only one inch of rain has fallen since April and officials say they are worried. McCoy Lake weather station reported a high of 33 Saturday and 22 Sunday with Redford Street weather station in downtown Port Alberni close behind with 91 Sunday. At 1:30 p.m. Monday it was 92 and still rising, hitting 95 by 3:30 p.m.

Comox Sees Opening Of New Hospital

COMOX — The new St. Joseph's Hospital here was opened Saturday afternoon, with more than 1,000 people attending the ceremony. Cost of the hospital, which will have room for 72 patients and 52 more if the third floor is built, was several million dollars. $1,286,000 of which was provided by a provincial grant. NOT WANTED The hospital, on Comox Hill next to the existing general hospital, was voted against two years ago by the public, but the Sisters of St. Joseph's went ahead anyway. There were 67 donations for private rooms and equipment. 37 other miscellaneous donations and 35 oil and water color paintings donated by Comox Valley artists. Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell performed the opening ceremony.

Duncan Takes to Air

DUNCAN — A small armada of planes is expected to descend on Duncan airfield this weekend when the newly-born Duncan Flying Club will celebrate its first two-day fly-in. The Duncan Jaycees, who managed to have the airfield built after many trying months, will hand over their jurisdiction over the landing strip to the Cowichan Valley Airport Society. Victoria businessman Claude Butler will receive a life membership for his generous land offer and the city of Duncan will have its first small-scale airshow. The official opening will start at 2 p.m. Events to be seen during the second of the two-day fly-in are: air force display, landing of a glider plane, the performance of a sky diver, a jet-powered helicopter, local air rides and static displays. There will be ample parking space for cars and plans at the air strip which is about 1 1/2 miles southwest of Duncan, off Langry Road. A few months ago the club was wishful thinking. Then a group of air-minded men met and pondered whether or not it was feasible to form a flying club. Thanks to hard-pushing president Roy Teasdale and experienced Terry Kinch, both of whom are pilots, a small number of other fliers and assisting local businesses, the club not only soared but was able to get two top-notch flying instructors who train club members on Victoria Flying Club Fleet Canucks. Now the membership has reached 70, many of whom are licensed pilots. Included in the total are 20 students. Fifteen persons are on the waiting list. The two instructors are Cliff Hatch, a former air force pilot from Salt Spring Island and Gordon Wicks from Victoria Flying Club. The Duncan club also has leased a Piper Cub which is used for checking out licensed pilots.

Indian Boy Killed

DUNCAN — The 18-year-old son of well-known Cowichan Indian carver Simon Charlie, Peter Abel Charlie, died instantly at 9:15 p.m. Monday after he was shot in the head with a .22 rifle. He was hunting rats at the Duncan garbage dump, about two miles on the outskirts of the city, with his brother-in-law, Wilbur Canute, 21. ACCIDENT RCMP said the two were walking down a slope, when Canute's rifle accidentally discharged. He ran to the nearby house of David Paige Jr. on Fairbridge Road and telephoned an ambulance and police, but Charlie was dead. Deputy Coroner, Tom Lines, will decide this morning whether an inquest or inquiry will be held.

Two Charged In Fatality

NANAIMO — Both the driver and the owner of one of the cars involved in the May 6 highway death of Michael Shogan, 29, will face court charges. Brian Keith Roberts, 21, Watlington, will be charged with criminal negligence causing the death of Mr. Shogan, and with impaired driving. He was not in court, and the provisional date of Aug. 2 was set. OWNERS, TOO Lawrence Michael John Bryson, 18, of 465 Sunderland, owner of the passenger car, was charged with criminal negligence causing the death. He will appear Aug. 3 for preliminary hearing. The car which Mr. Roberts is alleged to have been driving and the Shogan vehicle collided at the Nanoose flats. The Roberts vehicle, containing six others, flew off the road, coming to rest on the hard-top convertible roof. The occupants only slightly hurt, had to crawl out of one of the windows. THROUGH AIR The Shogan vehicle, a sports model, plummeted through the air, landing on the nearby railroad tracks, throwing passenger Keith Burley clear, but fracturing his skull. Mr. Shogan was killed almost instantly.

Boat Death Inquest Begun

DUNCAN — The inquest into the death of Ray Dalziel Cameron of Duncan, who drowned in a boating accident Saturday night on Quamichan Lake opened Monday night with the viewing of the body. A non-swimmer, Mr. Cameron was riding in an outboard runabout which was towing water skier, Bob Griffiths, the owner, when the boat capsized 100 yards from shore about 8:10 p.m. Mr. Cameron was born in Vancouver in 1931, where he attended school and later operated an upholstery shop with his brother. He had lived in Duncan for the past six years where he was formerly employed with Lamson's Upholstery, and more recently operated his own shop. He is survived by his wife, Ann, a daughter, Kathy, two brothers, Jack and William of Vancouver, and two sisters, Mrs. Donna Threw, of Duncan, and Mrs. Doreen Rennie, of Vancouver. POLICE in all Vancouver Island centres outside of Greater Victoria starting July 1 will have the power to temporarily suspend the licences of drinking drivers. The program started in the Victoria area last winter, where it was exceedingly successful. After it covers all of Vancouver Island, it will move to the Mainland. TIFED Under new legislation, police have the right, after noticing a driver who may be tipsy, to suspend his licence for 24 hours. If the driver challenges the policeman's judgment, he can take a breath test which indicates his sobriety.

Man's Body Discovered

COURTENAY — The body of an elderly man, believed to be James Gordon Morse, 79, who disappeared in a boating accident nine days ago, was found by children on Denman Island late Saturday night. The man's son, William, a Vancouver city police patrol sergeant, will make positive identification today. He was rescued, but his father floated off into the darkness after their small boat capsized as they were making engine repairs.

Official Impaired

COURTENAY — A school superintendent from Campbell River school district, William James Osborne Logie was convicted of impaired driving Monday. The charge was laid after his arrest May 20. He first appeared in court May 23, pleading not guilty. He was fined $300 and was prohibited from driving for four months between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. and on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Crash Snaps Pole

Two men are recovering in Nanaimo hospital after an accident Saturday night in which their convertible struck and sheared off a power pole on Nanoose flats, near Nanoose. Robert John Chamut, 24, who works at Kelsey Bay, and David Maddison, 25, who also works at Kelsey Bay, escaped serious injury. Both were reported Monday night as in good condition. The accident involved the one car, which left the highway one mile south of the village.

Education Lab Possible Here

By BILL STAVIAL
Victoria could become a centre of educational research if an idea called LEARN gets off the ground.

All LEARN needs is money—lots of it.
This summer a first feasibility study will be done in Greater Victoria. If the investigators say yes and the financial angels appear, a research lab involving five school districts and the University of Victoria will probably be the result.

LEARN stands for Laboratory for Educational Advancement, Research and Needs.
SCHOOL PRINCIPAL
Its chief proponents are Dr. Fred Tyler, dean of education at the University of Victoria; J. F. Longmore, assistant superintendent of the Greater Victoria school district; and Harold Parrott, principal of Dunsmuir junior high school in Colwood.

ings so far. The school districts are Greater Victoria, Sooke, Saanich, Gulf Islands and Cowichan.

STUDY VALUE
Mr. Longmore said Saturday that LEARN would investigate the value of new educational methods in south Island school districts.

Team teaching, upgrading, educational TV and individualized instruction are examples.
"The university, school boards and teachers have contributed $2,200 for a summertime study of the feasibility of researching individualized instruction."

Smooth Young Diplomats Enjoy Natural Beauty

By JIM HOFFMAN

On Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Bradford, 3528 Plymouth Road, entertained two of the smoothest diplomats ever to visit this country.

They were Rinichi Maruyama, 23, and Satosi Saito, 22, and both exhibited the genuine, unaffected savoir-faire expected of emissaries of the old school.

Both are cadets in navigation training aboard the Japanese barque Nippon Maru, currently docked at Ogden Point. They were invited to dinner and an evening at home with the Bradfords.

Amy Kawano, 21, of Victoria, was ready to act as interpreter, but the cadets had both studied English in school and proved quite knowledgeable in the language and even eager to display their facility by asking questions.

breath-taking sight, although Satosi, a true nature aesthete, raved about the "pretty fog" he saw down the right side of the mountain.

The Olympic Mountains across Juan de Fuca Strait they immediately admired and called "Rockies" or "no, both the clean-cut cadets were smart and well-mannered. As they dined on Canadian roast beef and drank Canadian beer with their hosts, they used their best school English to praise the cooking, ask who'd prepared which dish, and quiz the teen-age Bradford daughters, Roberta and Betty.

Rinichi is from Tokyo and Satosi comes from Okinawa. Both have taken 4½ years of college, which gave them general courses the first two years, and specialized navigation courses the last two years.

Their service aboard the Nippon Maru will complete their training for the merchant marine.

More than 100 Victoria families have invited crew members of the two sailing ships, the Nippon Maru and the Kaiwo Maru, to their homes.

Visit officials are still anxious that Victorians continue to serve as hosts for the seamen, most of whom speak some English.

A real Buccaneer—Elaine Perry, 2, of 1370 Esquimalt

Pirate Mellow Fellow

By BILL THOMAS
Sixteen men on a flackjack outfit. Yo Ho Ho and a bottle of stout.

It may not be quite the way a pirate song should go, but it did work out well Saturday for privateers plying their trade in Esquimalt Buccaneer Day.

All hands who came alongside at Esquimalt Plaza were treated to the new look in piracy. It was a sight that would have sent Sir Henry Morgan, Jean Lafitte or Calico Jack Rackham into fits of laughter.

Not a shot of rum, salt pork or weevil-infested hardtack in sight. Pirates-for-a-day, however, filled themselves with pancakes and sausages from 7 a.m. on.

EIGHT ON TIME
The Buccaneer Day parade started right on time to the delight of the crowds strung along the route.

Pirates have mellowed with the years. Instead of cutting off ears and foot-hauling people, the Esquimalt pirates trotted along the streets giving out peanuts and tossing suckers into the crowd.

There was a costume contest at Bullen Park, followed by a sports program at Lamson Park, a baseball series, and for those who like their sports rougher, a minor tournament in the Sports Centre.

Older pirates munched sandwiches and cakes in Jubilee Hall and spluttered about younger generation.

At the sports field it was obvious the bright sun had brought out some very attractive pirate hostages in short shorts. It required a most active roving eye to keep up with the action.

Adults who could not compete in the sports had their chance to exercise at two dances. An adult dance was held in Jubilee Hall, while square dancers got their opportunity in the Sports Centre.

Buccaneer Day events continue today with activities in Gorge Park. There will be a salmon barbecue from 1 to 4 p.m., an interdenominational service at 2 p.m., a band concert and variety show from 2 to 4 p.m. and a treasure hunt at 3 p.m. Tea will be served from 1 to 4 p.m.

Shelter Grant
The provincial and federal governments have authorized a grant of $2,032 toward a $4,000 shelter when Central Saanich plans to build as a centennial project in a municipal park. The local contribution will be $1,968.

'Use Indian Names For Mountains'

DUNCAN — The use of Indian names for rivers and mountains is being suggested by David Barr of Jaynes Road, Duncan. He said, "I have long felt that the system of naming our mountains in the Rockies, Selkirk and Coast ranges leaves much to be desired as so many of them are named for persons who in 100 years time will be largely forgotten."

Mr. Barr is a retired communication company executive and for 30 years has lived in Latin America where governments have used native names for geographical landmarks. He contends, "After a little practice, one can soon learn the proper pronunciation of such native names. He suggests the Indian Affairs department should contact old Indians to obtain the original names of geographic locations, in an effort to give more authenticity to British Columbia and Canada."

You have to keep remembering you're smoking Canada's longer popular-price filter cigarette. It's longer than luxury size. Longer than king size. Much longer than regular size. And that could be a problem. You might close a book on the end of your Benson & Hedges 100. Or burn a hole through your

Heat Wave Sizzles On

Victoria's heat wave, already three days old and with temperatures six degrees above normal, could become a long one.

Although some clouds are possible today, Allan McQuarrie, officer in charge at the Gonzales Hill weather station, said Monday that "I see no great change in sight."

He said mean temperatures of 62 degrees Saturday and 63 Sunday were six degrees above normal, while Sunday's high of 74 at Gonzales matched the June 1 reading as the hottest this year.

Monday's high was 73, and Mr. McQuarrie said cool sea breezes in the past 48 hours are the only thing that have kept the official Gonzales temperature below the 80-plus weather encountered in inland areas.

The longest heat wave last year was three days and didn't come until mid-August.

Mr. McQuarrie said he thinks "the heat is being felt more due to the lack of precipitation."

DROUGHT DUE

This area has had no measurable precipitation compared to the normal 4.1-inch in the first 18 days of June. However, the drought was about due, since Victoria has absorbed 15.73 inches of rain this year, compared to the normal 12.71.

Elsewhere in B.C.:
Weathermen and foresters said the huge Vancouver forest district is in a state of "severe drought" with an extreme fire danger. Some higher humidity is due today or Wednesday.

The provincial water branch, in its final bulletin on B.C. runoff conditions, said ideal melt conditions have eliminated the flood potential on most rivers despite a record snowpack.

However, the branch said a flood threat still exists on the Columbia River and, as it is confirmed, the heat wave sent the Columbia above the flood alert level in Trail, covering one street with two feet of water.

NATO Eyes Canadian Squadron

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may contribute a squadron of ships to a proposed "standing naval force" for NATO, Defence Minister Holtby told the Commons Monday.

He added his department has not finished its investigation of the proposal.

Former defence minister Douglas Harkness asked when the force was approved in principle by NATO. He referred to a statement by Admiral Thomas Moore, new chief of U.S. naval operations, that NATO's naval force will be established soon.

B.C. Log Drive Buffets Resort Owner

FRANCOIS LAKE (CP) — Resort owner Douglas Kelly frustrated boommen as they drove their logs down the Stelako River Monday by anchoring a boat in the middle of the river, and putting out his fishing line.

But he failed to stop the drive. A crowd of more than 70 persons watched as Mr. Kelly on several occasions was swept downstream by heavy logs pounding his 10-foot aluminum boat.

"WELL-CONTROLLED" "A well-controlled log drive," he yelled to the spectators as he fought the current and logs. "Just look at them."

The controversial drive in this remote area of central British Columbia started on schedule Monday amid reports the provincial government would move to halt any interference from Mr. Kelly, spokesman for dissident resort owners, or any others.

"BITTER ROW" The drive caused a bitter controversy last year between the federal and provincial governments on jurisdiction over movement of logs down the river. The resort owners claim the log drive ruins salmon spawning grounds on the Stelako.

B.C. Deputy Forestry Minister F. S. McKinnon, who had indicated the government was considering issuing an injunction to stop any interference with the log drive, said he would not move to stop Mr. Kelly or any other lodge operator who might anchor in the river.

"HIS LIFE" "We are just concerned about the safety of the men," he said. "It's a matter for the police."

RCMP Staff Sergeant D. G. Williams of Prince George, one of six Mounties at the scene, said there was nothing he could do either.

"The man is endangering his own life, using his own judgment," he said.

Fraser Lake Sawmills Ltd., organizer of the drive, ended the tow of the first day's 300,000

Kosygin, Eban Highlight UN Day

Three Rival Plans

Key details of the three main blueprints for Mideast peace, in the order of their publication Monday:

PRESIDENT JOHNSON — Recognition of the right to national life, justice for refugees, innocent maritime passage, limits on the wasteful arms race, political independence and territorial integrity for all.

PREMIER KOSYGIN — Condemnation of Israel as an aggressor, unconditional Israeli withdrawal behind 1949 armistice lines, full Israeli payment for Arab war damage. Security Council action to eliminate all consequences of Israeli aggression.

FOREIGN MINISTER EBAN — Peaceful co-existence between Israel and the Arab states, removal of conflicting big-power interests from the Mideast, Arab recognition of and direct contact with Israel.

Eban

dignitaries left the assembly while Eban was making his sharp attack. Soviet officials said the reason was a previously-made appointment.

SOVIET RECORD "I give a simple answer to the Soviet government," Eban said. "Your government's record in the stimulation of the arms race, in the paralysis of the Security Council, in the encouragement throughout the Arab world of unfounded suspicions concerning Israel's intentions, your constant refusal to say a single word of criticism at any time of declarations threatening the violent overthrow of Israel's sovereignty and existence—all this gravely undermines your claim to objectivity.

"You come here in our eyes not as a judge or a prosecutor, but rather as a legitimate object of international criticism for the part you have played in the somber events which have brought our region to a point of explosive tension.

DISTRIBUTION "If the Soviet Union had made an equal distribution of its friendship among the peoples of the Middle East, if it had refrained from exploiting the regional rancor and tensions for the purposes of its own global policy, if it had stood in even-handed devotion to the legitimate interests of all states, the crisis that commands our attention and anxiety would never have occurred."

Eban also said his country was shocked by the sudden withdrawal of the UN emergency force from the Gaza Strip last month and could never agree to a repetition of such a force.

Paris Parley Fails to Agree

PARIS (AP)—French President de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Wilson failed to agree Monday on how to get Big Four or Israeli-Arab talks going.

They also spent nearly two hours, during day-long meetings, in inconclusive discussion of Britain's bid for Common Market membership. And their exchange touched as well on China's first H-bomb test and the Vietnam war—but no statements were made.

Both men favored a Big Four approach toward Mideast peacemaking, but de Gaulle is less keen than Wilson for negotiations within the UN framework.

They opposed any early Big Four summit conference but did feel the Big Four must underwrite any Arab-Israeli settlement. Mideast arms supplies should be limited, all waterways should be free to all and war gains in territory must be the subject of talks.

UNIONISTS JAILED

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three executives of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union were sentenced Monday to jail for one year, and the union was fined $25,000 for criminal contempt of the B.C. Supreme Court.

The union was given no extended time for payment of the fine.

Mr. Justice T. A. Dohm chastised the union for its "planned flaunting of the court's authority." He said he could not imagine a case of more gross contempt.

As the sentences were handed down to union President H. Steve Stavens, secretary Homer Stevens and business agent

Jack Nichol, several loud cries were heard in the courtroom. Eyes of the men's wives filled with tears.

The judge initiated the action following actions and press releases relating to a supreme court injunction issued in a union jurisdictional dispute in Prince Rupert.

Mr. Justice Dohm refused to accept submissions on behalf of the union and offers that the case should be dismissed for insufficient evidence.

"NOT SERIOUS"

He also rejected a submission the case was not serious enough to be dealt with by the procedure being used—a summary hearing before a judge.

Union lawyer John Stanton said that in previous cases judges have held this procedure should be used rarely and only when no other remedies are available.

In this case, Mr. Stanton argued, the attorney general should have acted under a section of the Criminal Code or the case could have been left to civil suits for damage.

The injunction issued by Judge Keith Smith ordered the union, through business agent Nichol, to send a telegram giving permission for union shore workers to unload and process fish from five trawlers in Prince Rupert. The union was alleged to have

John Maltwood

Museum Donor Dies at 100

The donor of the University of Victoria's Maltwood Art Museum died Sunday in his 101st year.

Funeral services for centenarian John Maltwood, formerly of The Tutchin in Royal Oak, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in Christ Church Cathedral with Archbishop Harold Sexton and Dean Brian Whitlow officiating. Mr. Maltwood, who celebrated his 100th birthday last summer, turned over the thatched-roof Saanich landmark and its art treasures to the university in November, 1964.

Much of the Maltwood collection is Chinese, some dating back to Han and Wei dynasties of 2,000 years ago, and was owned by his former wife Katherine who willed the collection to the university.

OXO MANAGER

He was born in London, England, and was managing director of Oxo Ltd. of London until he retired in the 1920s. After retiring he and his wife travelled extensively in Europe and North Africa in search of architecture and art, and finally settled in Victoria in 1938.

He is survived by his wife Margaret in Victoria and nieces and nephews in Jersey, Channel Islands. Hayward's funeral chapel is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Nasser Expands Power

Direct Talks Israeli Plan

From UPI, AP, Reuters

While positions on the Arab-Israeli conflict hardened on both sides at the UN Monday, the same thing happened in the Middle East itself.

The Israeli cabinet ended a two-day policy meeting by indicating it will insist on direct and separate peace talks with Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

Announcement of the details,

In Egypt, President Nasser tightened his control by making himself premier and secretary-general of the only political party, thereby taking direct command of both the government and the party.

NEW POSTS

He made Zakaria Mohieddin deputy premier and put former premier Mohamed Sidki Suleiman in charge of industry and power.

"OUT-IF"

Ben-Gurion, stressing he was speaking only for himself, said Israeli forces should withdraw from Sinai if Egypt will agree to sign a peace treaty guaranteeing Israeli ships free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal. Israel would also retain control of the Gaza Strip.

Ben-Gurion said Israeli troops should agree to withdraw from occupied Syria if Syria will
